New Colorado University Center Planned on 80 Cragmor Acres

Cragmor Sanitorium has been turned over to the University of Colorado to operate as its new Colorado Springs Center.

Announcement of the $1.5 million gift was made today during the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce stockholders meeting at the Broadmoor International Center.

The gift includes 80 acres of land and buildings now standing there.

Cragmor Sanitorium is located on the south slopes of Austin Bluffs.

The area will become the campus of the new center here. It will also be used as a conference center, officials said.

The announcement said that the phasing out will be completed by the fall of 1965. Officials said CU will have to vacate its quarters on the Colorado College campus by Sept., 1965.

An overflow crowd of more than 800 persons attended the luncheon meeting.

Cosmonauts Land After 16 Orbits

By FRED W. COLEMAN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's three-man space ship, the world's first to carry more than one astronaut in orbit, landed safely today after completing 16 trips around the earth in 24 hours and 17 minutes, an official announcement said.

The program of scientific research, designed for 24 hours of flight, was accomplished in full, said the official announcement.

It added that the doctor, scientist and engineer aboard the space ship Voskhod — Sunrise — conducted observations "directly in outer space."

The Soviet news agency Tass said all three men "are feeling well."

The capsule had completed 16 circles of the earth when its commander, Col. Vladimir Komarov, was ordered to switch on braking devices, Tass reported.

Tass emphasized that only a 24-hour flight had been planned, but other indications caused speculation that the trip had ended far short of the originally scheduled time.

Tass reported "from the space flight control post" that the space ship descended through dense clouds when it plunged out of orbit. Planes and helicopters circled in the landing area.

At 10:57 a.m. Moscow time, 2:57 a.m. EST, 10 minutes after landing, pilots reported: "'The object is visible on the ground, well visible, and the cosmonauts, three, beside it. They are walking about, walking briskly."

Scientists, engineers and cosmonauts at the control post embraced and congratulated each other, Tass said.

The announcement of the space ship's purpose, made after it was launched Monday from a "cosmodrome" 1,250 miles southeast of Moscow, said it would study medical reactions during "a long flight." How long was never stated.

Informed sources had pointed out the highly eliptical orbit of the craft — ranging from 110 to 255 miles above the earth — as indicating it could not stay up too long.

The record for a single-man space ship, set by Lt. Col. Valery F. Bykovsky of the Soviet Union in June 1963, is five days and 81 orbits.

Western sources here generally agreed that the Soviet Union had achieved a giant new step into space.

The only competitor, the United States, hopes to launch a two-man capsule to begin its Gemini series early next year.

The U.S. Air Force was ordered last Dec. 10 to begin developing a manned orbiting laboratory that apparently would more nearly compare with Voskhod than the smaller Gemini series. But that laboratory is not expected to go into orbit until late 1967 or early 1968.

Explorers of space in both the Soviet Union and the United States have realized the importance of obtaining further knowledge about effects of prolonged space flight of human beings. One-man trips have shown problems such as low blood pressure and temporary instability.

Purposes of the Voskhod flight were announced as checking the new space ship and the way the three men worked together, investigating scientific and

Abducted American Colonel Freed by Venezuelan Reds

By PAUL FINCH

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Communist terrorists released U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Smolen unharmed Monday night after two of the five-man gang that abducted him Friday were arrested.

Smolen, blindfolded, was put out of a car about 11 p.m. on a street corner in eastern Caracas. A passing police car spotted him almost immediately and took him to a police station. He arrived at the embassy early today, said he felt fine and reported he had been treated well.

Interior Minister Gonzalo Barrios said the two terrorists seized in a downtown Caracas apartment early Monday were Spanish-born members of the Red underground called the Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN).

Reliable sources said nine other suspected terrorists were picked up later.

Smolen told newsmen his abductors said they kidnaped him to make propaganda for their underground war against Venezuela's democratic government.

The 45-year-old officer from Chandler, Ariz., said his abductors never mentioned any plan to trade him for political prisoners in Venezuela or for a condemned Communist Viet Cong terrorist in South Viet Nam. Various anonymous telephone callers had reported such proposals.

South Viet Nam police sources reported that the execution of the terrorist mentioned in connection with the Smolen abduction, Nguyen Van Troi, 19, still was scheduled for Thursday.

Smolen was the second American officer to be abducted and then released unharmed by Red terrorists. Last November, U.S. Army Col. James Chenault was held for eight days. U.S. Charge D'Affaires John Hill said Smolen's captivity apparently was shorter because the police were closing in.

Smolen talked with newsmen after a reunion at the embassy with his wife, Marian, of Rockford, Ill. He was kidnaped on the way to work after having breakfast with his wife and their four children.

He appeared well but tired.

He wore his Air Force uniform, but without a coat or tie.

Smolen said his kidnapers took him to one place "and there I stayed." He said his abductors seemed to be "a team of three." At least two men were with him at all times, he said.

He added he was blindfolded immediately when kidnaped and was not allowed to see until he was in the gang's hideout.

Smolen said he was fed hamburgers, soft drinks and chicken brought in from a restaurant.

Barrios said the two accused kidnapers arrested early Monday were Arsenio Pasarin, 26, and Alberto Rodrigo Barro, 24. He said both are naturalized Venezuelans and that one worked for an advertising agency and the other for a TV station.

New Contract Is Sought by American Motors

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers' hopes for preserving the historic profit-sharing contract with American Motors were all but dead today with the company and union going into the final stages of bargaining for a new contract for some 26,000 workers.

AMC Vice President Edward L. Cushman and director of the UAW American Motors department Douglas Fraser agreed the company's economic offer Monday left the two sides relatively close together on a national economic agreement.

But the optimism was clouded by qualifications by both sides. Fraser said the union wanted the profit sharing—or progress sharing — program continued, even though AMC dropped it when it framed the offer along the lines of settlements the union won from the big three.

Cushman, in turn, said any national settlement between AMC and the UAW would be contingent on five demands the company included in the offer that must be agreed to on the local level.

Cushman said the demands were aimed at bringing the American Motors contract down to the level of those at the other auto companies and "make American Motors competitive with the big three."

At General Motors, a strike by the UAW rolled into its 19th day. GM and the union have agreed to a national economic settlement but the strike will not end until plant level contracts at 130 bargaining units around the country have been substantially settled.

U.S. Is Seeking More Allied Aid In Viet Battles

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI) — The United States will urge its partners in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) to contribute more military help to embattled South Viet Nam.

Reliable sources said the appeal would be made Thursday when the SEATO Military Advisory Group meets in Bangkok, Thailand, even if the subject is not formally placed on the meeting agenda.

The sources said the Americans will seek more advisers and technical assistants. They will not ask for all-out intervention with combat troops, as some Vietnamese generals desire. Such a one as Air Commodore Nguyen Cao Ky, head of the Vietnamese air force, has gone so far as to ask premier Nguyen Khanh to make a formal request for more combat aid.

Ky is commander of the Vietnamese air force and the acknowledged leader of the "young Turk" generals who are Khanh's chief backers at present. Commodore Ky said he himself made the SEATO proposal to Khanh after dis-

North Carolina Flood Damage Set $10 Million

KINSTON, N.C. (UPI)—Flood waters from the rain-swollen Neuse River swirled today through parts of eastern North Carolina where early damage estimates totaled $10 million.

But officials hoped that the worst of the flooding, which drove 3,700 persons from their homes, was over.

Zone Change Denied for $10 Million Complex

City Council this morning denied a zoning change to permit construction of a projected $10 million shopping complex in northeast Colorado Springs.

Under consideration was the request of Bill Smartt to change zoning on approximately 90 acres to the largest Planned Business Center (PBC-2) zone in the city.

This acreage included 55.3 acres north of Palmer Park Boulevard and east of Academy Boulevard; 34.67 acres southeast of Academy and Palmer Park; and 3.8 acres south of San Miguel Street and east of Academy.

Council unanimously approved the zoning change for the 34.67 acres.

In a split three to five vote, Council denied the zoning for the 55.3 acres. This would have meant a zoning change from R-2 (single family residential) to Planned Business Center.

Councilman Harry Scurr, who has a financial interest in this tract, left the Council Chambers during the zoning change discussion and vote.

Council was presented a petition with 192 signatures by persons in the area against the 90 acre zoning change.

In addition, 20 persons at the Council meeting objected to the change.

However, many more persons were at the meeting to support Smartt's request.

Layman Talks First Time to Vatican Council

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The first laymen ever to address a secret Ecumenical Council session today suggested to bishops that they learn from the laity "the needs of the world in which we live."

Patrick Keegan, the 48-year-old head of the World Movement for Christian workers, spoke in English during the normally all-Latin debate in St. Peter's Basilica. The British layman, speaking on behalf of 35 lay auditors of the council, was applauded when he went to the rostrum and when he left it after his speech.

Three cardinals of the council presidency, including ultra-conservative Ernesto Cardinal Ruffini of Palermo, Sicily, shook Keegan's hand warmly when he passed them on the way back to his seat.

It was the first time a noncleric has ever addressed such a world gathering of Catholic hierarchy in the over 1600 years of their history. Keegan spoke for 10 minutes.

'Gravest Crisis' Erupts in Vatican Council

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) —Pope Paul VI was faced today with deciding whether to intervene in the most critical struggle so far between progressives and conservatives in the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Fifteen prominent cardinals asked the pontiff to act personally to prevent conservatives on top council commissions from sabotaging the desires of the council majority on key issues.

There was speculation that the Pope had invited the petition from the progressives.

Haste, Waste Seen in U.S. Space Race

DENVER (AP) — Edwin P. Neilan, chairman of the board of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said Monday the nation's space program has been marked by haste and waste.

He said it may lead to putting "the congressional pork barrel into permanent orbit."

Neilan, addressing the convention of the National Association of Mutual Insurance Companies, said, "If space means waste, we must not forget that haste in space means more waste."

City Council Begins Reading Sales Tax Plan

City Council today began reading the proposed two per cent City Sales Tax ordinance more than two and a half hours before Mayor Harry Hoth had told a packed council chamber the 1964 budget discussion would begin.

The budget is contingent on passage of the sales tax ordinance. Otherwise cuts would have to be made or other means found to finance the city's operations.

Council remained in continuous session after beginning at 9:30 a.m. though Council members filed out after the reading of the bulky ordinance began at 12:20 p.m. in the empty council chambers.

Earlier in today's session, Mayor Harry Hoth told attending residents that the 1964 budget discussion would not begin until 3 p.m.

Council members filed out of the chambers about 12:30 p.m. leaving City-Clerk Treasurer Robert Parker to read the ordinance to the bare walls. Council members said they might be back before 3 p.m. to listen to Parker read the remainder of the proposed law.

The ordinance is a 52-page affair and weighs a half pound.

NORAD Tracks Russian Three-Man Space Ship

Voshkod, the Russian three-man spaceship, did not pass over Colorado Springs during the five times it crossed the North American continent.

A spokesman for the North American Air Defense Command said that the space craft passed over the United States proper three times in its 16-orbit flight.

The spokesman, while he indicated that NORAD was able to track the vehicle until it landed, said he could not give the exact time or place of landing.

He said that Voshkod passed over the southern portion of Alaska and directly over NORAD's Dewline system on its 10th orbit.

The spacecraft crossed North America on orbits 6 through 10. On orbit 6, the ship moved up the eastern seaboard passing over Washington, D. C.; on orbit 7, it passed over Central U. S., missing Colorado but coming "very close" to Omaha, Neb.; on orbit 8, Voshkod moved over the West Coast on 9, it passed over northwestern Canada and 10, it passed over Alaska.

The spokesman said that NORAD tracked the ship "throughout its flight." He said that NORAD determined the nearest point to earth during the orbit was 115½ miles; the most distant was 215 miles.

LBJ Neglecting His Duties, Says Goldwater

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater charged today that President Johnson is neglecting his duties for "full-time politicking" that "turns Sunday into campaign chaos."

The Republican presidential nominee referred to a campaign trip Sunday by Johnson that included a visit to a church in Phoenix, Ariz., Goldwater's hometown.

Goldwater said the President had "visited church after church and city after city in a political travesty of the Lord's day."

After a quick flight here from Phoenix to open a new week of campaigning, the Arizona senator renewed his demands that Johnson agree to a televised debate.

"If the man who now occupies the White House wants to be more of a full-time President between now and election day, there is a way," Goldwater said.

The way, he said, is a nationally televised debate that "could be taped, so as to avoid the possibility of Mr. Johnson making a mistake that might jeopardize national security."

Goldwater added, "It could be done at a time and place of his choosing, so as to permit him to spend more time at his desk."

Bodies of Two Men Found in Plane Wreck

AURORA (UPI)—The bodies of two Denver men were removed Monday from the wreckage of a light plane 2½ miles northeast of the Sky Ranch Airport.

Officials said the plane apparently stalled at low altitude and plunged into a plowed field. The craft was demolished but did not burn.

The victims were identified as Robert E. Anderson, 38, the pilot, and Larry C. Kleiner, 19.

The single-engine aircraft took off from the Sky Ranch Airport about 1 p.m. Sunday and last was seen about an hour later making practice takeoffs and landings at the east Colfax Airport, east of Sky Ranch.

The wreckage was spotted Monday by a Continental airliner approaching Stapleton International Airport.

Johnson Says He Will Keep Torrid Pace

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, elated over the results of his first full-scale campaign trip, says he will maintain a torrid pace until the Nov. 3 election.

It's not that Johnson fears defeat. But he makes clear he doesn't want to leave anything to chance — and big crowds prove a powerful lure for him.

The President returned to Washington early today from Boise, Idaho, last stop on a six-day, 10,000-mile campaign trip through 15 states from shore to shore.

He will be hitting the trail again Wednesday for two days in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York.

After that he'll be off for Ohio,

Two Youths Are Held for Threat to LBJ

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI)—Two Casper teen-agers remained in jail here today in lieu of $25,000 bond, charged with threatening the life of President Lyndon Johnson.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled for next Tuesday for Larry Rush, 17, and Roy Edward Smith, 16, who were arrested by local police late Sunday at Natrona County Hospital. The arrests came after a nurse allegedly heard them make the threat while they talked with a friend who was in the hospital.

State Department Stops Trial of Accused Spies

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — (Special)— An unpublicized State Department request was behind Acting Attorney General Nicholas deB. Katzenbach's abrupt decision to drop capital espionage charges against a reputed Communist husband-wife spy team.

At almost the same hour that Soviet secret police were manhandling U. S. embassy personnel in Siberia, Deputy Undersecretary of State Llewellyn Thompson was urgently pleading that the government end its prosectuion in New York of Aleksandr Sokolov, 40, and his woman companion, known by the alias Joy Ann Garber Baltch, 34.

That's the private report given the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which is probing the mysterious spy case, by reliable sources within the State Department.

According to the subcommittee's information, Secretary Thompson's recommendation was approved by Secretary of State Rusk and "a high official in the White House" other than President Johnson.

The dramatic end to the espionage trial came just after a federal court jury was sworn in to begin hearing testimony from FBI agents detailing the covert operations of two of the most mysterious Soviet spies to operate in this country in recent years.

In dismissing the charges, the Justice Department attorneys said publicly only that they were "acting in the interest of national security."

Government insiders report that the only "national security" involved was fear by the State Department's "experts on Russia" that prosecution of the spies would "dampen U. S.-Soviet relations" and make the work of U. S. officials in Moscow more difficult.

FRANTIC MESSAGES

They cite Ambassador Foy Kohler's almost frantic messages from Moscow pleading with Secretary Rusk to oppose any more crackdowns on Soviet spies.

Since taking over his present diplomatic post, Kohler has bombarded the State Department with urgent pleas, contending that spy trials and expulsions of Communists were making it extremely difficult for his staff to function.

He recently reported that the Soviet secret police had tightened surveillance of other embassy officials, including Kohler himself, and that it was almost impossible to function without Russian authorities having full details of embassy activities.

The astonishing Kohler messages were laid before top-level Justice Department officials on the recommendation of Deputy Undersecretary Thompson, who urged a temporary moratorium on further Soviet spy trials and arrests.

If the trial of the "mystery-shrouded" spies had been permitted to proceed, Justice Department attorneys were pre-

Moratorium Ended On Kidney Surgery

DENVER (AP)—A six-month moratorium on kidney transplants ended Monday with an operation transferring a kidney between sisters.

Mrs. Gerald B. Menkveld, 35, of Tucson, Ariz., the recipient, and Mrs. Martha Bestman, 41, of Grand Rapids, Mich., apparently survived the transplant satisfactorily.

A team of surgeons from the Denver Veterans Hospital and Colorado General Hospital performed the transplant—the 76th. Thirty eight recipients are living.

Those who died included three recipients of kidneys from cadavers and six from baboons.

McClellan Endorses Democratic Ticket

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., a conservative who often has been opposed to many of president Johnson's policies, Monday endorsed the national Democratic ticket.

The senior Arkansas senator left unanswered the question of how actively he will support President johnson.

McClellan was asked in an interview whether he would support President Johnson or Sen. Barry Goldwater.

"I am supporting the Democratic ticket, local, state and nation," McClellan said. He observed in answer to another question that "Nationally, Johnson and (Sen. Hubert H.) Humphrey obviously are well out in front."

McClellan declined to comment further on the presidential race but said he may have something to say on the issues in a series of speeches he is planning.

McClellan is making Little Rock his headquarters until Congress reconvenes in January. He is not up for re-election this year.

LBJ's Retreat Rivals Ranch In Publicity

By ERNEST STROMBERGER

KINGSLAND, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson's LBJ ranch, 25 miles south of here, has a rival for the Summer White House — and the rival has an annex.

The rival is a modest white frame house on the Haywood ranch near Kingsland on the Llano River, and its annex is a small lake cottage several miles down the Granite Shoals lake.

The river's name is a Spanish word meaning plains or prairie pronounced "yahn - o." Most Texans, however, call it the "lan-o."

The two retreats have attracted the President and his family during most daylight hours on two recent weekend trips to Texas.

On his July 17-19 trip, Johnson strode from the plane which brought him from Washington and bypassed the LBJ ranch house to hop on a waiting helicopter bound for the lake retreat.

The Johnsons have used the two Central Texas lake houses almost unnoticed for several years, except when publicityaccompanied the 1961 visits of Bashir Ahmad, the Pakistani camel driver who was Johnson's guest on a nationwide tour, and Pakistan President Mohammad Ayub Khan.

Now, however, Johnson's quests for a peaceful lake visit are in vain.

"People see the helicopters coming and there are 50 boats in front of his place by the time the helicopters land," said Bill Douthit, whose lodge is across the Llano from the Haywood ranch.

The boaters form a convoy behind the big cruiser as it zips around the lake and the two secret service patrol boats that stay behind the cruiser are kept busy trying to cut off any boaters who try to approach the presidential craft.

Despite the stir the President causes with his visits, local the practice of Johnson City, Stonewall and other nearby areas which have sprinkled highways with signs advising tourists of their connectsion with the President.

"We've got a letter from the White House saying the President doesn't mind if we use his name in advertising, but we're all so busy we can't get a quorum to do business," Kingsland Chamber of Commerce secretary-treasurer Joyce Zerm said. Business at Kingsland, a mile from the Haywood ranch, is booming and lakefront lots at Sunrise Beach, site of the smaller Johnson lake house, have been sold out for about a year.

One exception was a San Antonio man, who advertised his Sunrise Beach property as overlooking the Johnson cottage.

"He got about 25 or 30 calls a day about the place," a Sunrise Beach resident said. "None of the callers admitted that the Johnson angle was the reason they were interested, but the calls dropped off when he took out the reference to LBJ."

Most Sunrise Beach residents follow the practice of one of Johnson's neighbors, who said she respects Johnson's attempts at privacy and refuses to answer newsmen's questions about her famous neighbor. She politely refers newsmen to persons she termed 'the President's henchmen" — naming A. W. Moursund of Johnson City, trustee of many Johnson holdings. and Jesse Kellam of Austin, manager of the Johnson television station.

The Sunrise Beach cottage, an unfinished, modern-style onestory house on short piers, sits on a 50x240-foot lot with nothing but underground cable signs to indicate it is used by the President.

The house is just a few steps from the lake, where there is a small wooden dock. The land fronts on one of the small coves in the Sunrise Beach area, wher in the Sunrise Beach area, where there are several other lots.

The Johnsons also own an interest in several hundred acres of the rocky, scrub-brush land south of the lake, including 150 acres which has been divided into two — to seven - acre "ranchettes" selling from $5,000 up. The property is advertised under the name of "Comanche Ranchettes" and has not been a big seller since introduced last month. Johnson's name is not used in the advertising.

The 4,500-acre ranch has about one-half mile fronting on the Llano, which at this point is a part of the lake.

The Johnsons and Moursund bought the ranch two years ago from Texas Christian University for $500,000. Miss Lulu Haywood, last survivor of three daughters of the ranch owner, willed the property for a Christian church youth camp near the ranch. The university decided to sell the ranch, and accepted the $500,000 bid.

The ranch supports Hereford and Angus cattle, sheep and goats. It also is one of the area's best spots for deer hunting.

The ranch house, about 200 yards from the water, is surrounded by a carpet-grass lawn behind a neat, white wooden fence.

Three boathouses in front of the house protect a 28-foot cruiser, a 17-foot inboard-outboard boat, a speedboat with motors and a runabout powered by a turbine engine.

The cruiser, the largest boat on the lake, is a cause of gripes among nearby boat owners on the 200-yard-wide Lano.

"They do more damage with that thing in one day than all of us could do in six months," one lodge operator said. At half throttle, he said, the cruiser leaves a wake about three feet high. When this reaches the shore, it often jams smaller boats into docks with enough force to do minor damage.

Has the recent attention brought to the highland lakes by Johnson's visits helped business?

"I know my business has picked up," said M. B. St. Clair, operator of the custom-made Llano river ferry, the only freshwater ferry in Texas. Johnson's boathouses are visible from the ferry.

Douthit, however, says he can see no effect on his business and can't recall any recent patrons suying they picked the spot because of its clear view of the Haywood ranch.

A Sunrise Beach resident says there is a little direct influence, but adds: 'Of course, his visits bring some people up here to look around, and that always creates some business."

ANTIQUE AIDS SLEDDERS

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Sledding on metropolitan park hills is being made easier these days by a 19th Century farm implement and an idea borrowed from road keepers of old New England and New York.

Whenever heavy snows hit, sledding becomes sluggish. To pack down the snow, park crews tried various tractor - drawn drags, but results left something to be desired.

Then Dr. Arthur T. Wilcox, parks director, remembered that on his family farm in Chautauqua County, N.Y., was a wooden roller that had been used for some 100 years to break clods in plowed soil. Similar to equipment used years ago to make unpaved roads passable, it's now being used in the Akron parks. Says Wilcox: "It's better than anything else we've tried."

Dad Takes Four Kids From School

HOUSTON (UPI)— A father who kept his oldest daughter home from school to keep her from having to wear gym shorts in physical edueation classes withdrew his four children from school Monday.

Virgil Deffenbaught, a former Houston policeman, said he will take his family to Jeffersonville, Ind., where he and the children will attend a Bible school run by the Christ Gospel Church International.

Deffenbaught said the girl was suspended. School authorities have said the girl was only given a notice to have her parents attend a conference at the school concerning the shorts dispute.

Deffenbaught called the shorts controversy an "act of God" Monday.

Don't Take Your Greatest Asset for Granted

★ Most of us throw every safeguard possible around our property. Homes, automobiles, and valuable personal property are carefully insured against losses by fire, theft, and storm. We insure our lives to protect the economic well-being of our dependents.

Yet health, on which depends our ability to earn these material comforts, is often completely neglected. Good health is too frequently taken for granted until it is lost. It is wise to protect this priceless asset. Include a health examination for every member of the family in your yearly budget.

Crippling Lung Disease Quadruples

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Albert Roberts of the U.S. Public Health Service reported today that deaths from chronic pulmonary emphysema, a crippling lung disease, have more than quadrupled in the last 10 years.

The report was contained in a paper Roberts presented before the International Congress of Diseases of the Chest at Mexico City. It was made public here by the service.

He said that a group of nonspecific respiratory conditions had killed 27,000 Americans and hastened the deaths of another 43,000 in 1962. Pulmonary emphysema, a progressive breakdown of the air sacs of the lungs that begins with shortness of breath and can end in suffocation, tops the list.

CAPITOL STUFF

By JACK METCALFE

WASHINGTON — Can't get tickets to the World's Series? Been to the World's Fair 47 times and looking for a change of pace? Why not visit Washington, now that all three rings of the resident circus are out touring the road?

This is not as flippant a suggestion as it sounds. For the capital is a downright pleasant place to be in these fall days, with enough nip in the bright soot-free air to dull remembrances of the late long, hot, nerve-needling summer.

And autumn weather is but one inducement. Another is that Washington is relatively empty these days. This is the slack season for tourists, who have been streaming here in greater numbers every years. Accommodations are plentifu. The capital is much like the sleepy Southern town of pre - Franklin D. Roosevelt days as it is ever likely to be again.

Some of the sights, of course are not currently on stage. Except when he knocks off campaigning from time to time to come back to mind the store, President Johnson is not roaming the White House grounds. Anyone who wants to shake his hand or join him on a hike had better stay in New York or go to the Far West.

But those visitors who are willing to tour the White House without any chance of glimpsing the first family get a much better shake these days. At 10:07 a.m. Friday, only 23 persons were queued up outside the wrought-iron East Gate, and this line was moving right along. Inside, sightseers moved leisurely through the historic state rooms, falling out of the procession anywhere they wished or staying with the crowd for a 30-minute tour.

NOTHING LIKE RECORD JULY

This is a sharp contrast to the spring and summer scene. In July, the record month, an average of 13,197 were hustled though the White House in the two hours, 10 a.m. to noon, that it is open Tuesdays through Saturdays. Before they got in, these crowds waited for hours in the tropic sun with humidity near 100 per cent.

The same happy change is true at other Washington showplaces — the Lincoln Memorial, the FBI Building (where 7,000 visitors made the rounds during the Easter Week peak), the Smithsonian Institution and its striking new Museum of History and Technology, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

At the Capitol, it's downright drowsy. Legislators are home haraguing the electorate and popping off at their opponents in tones rarely heard here. So they're not on hand to get in the way of visitors in the chambers, the corridors, the elevators or the subway. As a result, you may not be able to swim in the senator's pool these days, but you can buy a bowl of their restaurant's celebrated bean soup (25 cents) without waiting interminably for the privilege.

This adds up to the obvious fact that one of Washington's two principal preoccupations — politics — is largely out of town for the present. It will stay away until January, when the 89th Congress meets for the first time and a President is inaugurated. That month also will see the first ripples of next year's wave of visitors which will crest during spring vacation and in midsummer.

GOVERNMENT GOES ON, SORT OF

Until January, the other main Washington activity, government, goes on as always. It is so quiet that, seemingly, it only needs the absent politicians to get its annual billions for running expenses and an occasional investigation to keep bureaucrats on their toes.

To any observer, the business of government is, of course, hardly inconspicuous here. If the Pentagon and other federal beehives were not enough, batteries of official press agents are ever eager to trumpet whatever their department is or isn't doing.

Among Friday's crop of their efforts, for example, is the Internal Revenue Service's cheery news that next year's income tax form will be simpler than ever. But not all government press releases are so weighty. Nothing, in fact, is too picayune for nationwide distribution, as witness the flock of Federal Trade Commission releases on consent orders for one - horse stores to stop misrepresenting the price of merchandise. Another favorite is the Small Business Administration, which regularly produces such scary warnings as the one that "small grocery stores must keep tight control over expenses if they are to survive."

POLITICS DOESN'T NEED POLITICOS

Still elsewhere on the press release front is ample evidence that political Washington is not dead during the months the politicos are out on the campaign trail.

Democratic and Republican headquarters keep grinding out charges and countercharges. Every week they try to have some mild sensation, although obviously the candidates prefer to reserve the blockbusters (if any) for their barnstorming.

It's a source of satisfaction, incidentally, that bath sides apparently have gone along with the semi-serious suggestion in this space Sept. 5 that the parties should go all-out in forming committees by the thousands as a means of mining a lode of publicity and votes.

The Democrats now have droves of status groups — doctors, engineers and scientists and the like — to say nothing of rural Americans (they don't call them farmers a'ny more) for Johnson - Humphrey. But the Republicans have clearly outclassed them in this area. They even have Johnsons for Goldwater. And in the ethnic field alone there are no fewer than 40 committees aimed at attracting voters whose forebears came from such lands as Byelorussia, Slovenia, Turkestan, Lebanon.

But such energetic politicking shouldn't deter any would - be visitor. This really is the time to see Washington and its residents at their sunniest.

HISTORY OF WORLD WAR

FREDERICKTOWN, Ohio (AP) — What is probably one of the most complete clipping histories of World War I is in a Fredericktown attic.

Charles B. Gifford, who spent much of his life managing hotels in New York, Cleveland, Chicago and Columbus, Ohio, compiled it from clippings from more than 100 newspapers and magazines of the period. The clipings are in 33 13½ x 18-inch volumes of 650 pages each. Twenty gallons of paste were required.

Gifford died in 1940. A son, M. T. Gifford, who has the collection in his attic, says: "Like my father, I want it to be preserved. I hope some large library of patriotic organization may find use for it."

There were 10 colleges in the American colonies by 1770.

High-Risk Wheat Still to Be Grown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Owners of nearly 25,000 winter wheat farms, mostly in high-risk areas, plan to grow wheat for harvest next year for a market in 1965 or later.

The government's new wheat stabilization program permits farmers to overplant their acreage allotments up to 50 per cent. But they must store the extra grain under bond for sale in a year when they have a crop failure or do not plant their full allotment.

These farmers have total allotments for 1965 of 4,456,000 acres. They could grow about 6.7 million acres. Most of these farms are in Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas and Washington.

Honeymoon Dope Deal Goes Wrong

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI)—A honeymoon fling at dope-smuggling led to the prospect of six years behind bars today for Ronald burton, 25, of Oklahoma City.

Burton and his bride of six days, Nancy Cook Burton, 27, also of Oklahoma City, were arrested 12 miles north of Laredo last May and charged with smuggling narcotics. Federal agents said they had a gram of heroin with them.

Burton was sentenced to six years in prison Monday, and his wife given a five year suspended sentence.

new week of campaigning, followed by a visit to Des Moines and a night rally in Milwaukee.

The senator, in a televised interview Monday night, said he felt the "Bobby Baker case" was hurting the President more than anything else and that the Republican ticket was beginning to draw more support from the voters.

"Our polls that we saw Sunday show us now over the 40 per cent mark in almost every state," he said.

Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, once was a Johnson protege. He resigned last year when his wide-ranging financial activities were revealed.

Goldwater said that the issue most damaging to his campaign was "the outright lie that I am trigger happy. . .

"But I think that is being overcome by just people stopping to think that no man, particularly no American, is ever going to push the button."

In his Topeka speech, Goldwater said, "We face full-time responsibilities around the world, full- scale challenges. But not once do we hear of them from our part-time President.

"He gives us handshakes and handouts.

"He directs traffic and kisses babies rather than directing our foreign policy. He turns Sunday into a day of campaign chaos and the other days of the week into days of rest — so far as our foreign policy is concerned."

Dealing with the crisis in Southeast Asia, Goldwater said, "requires more than a 10 minute stopover between street caravans."

This was a reference to a brief meeting Johnson had Sunday in San Francisco with President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines.

Johnson and Macapagal conferred at length earlier this month when the Philippine president was in Washington on a state visit.

tioned the Pope Sunday night after they met to review what they called "the gravest crisis" of the entire council.

They expressed fear that the coordinating commission and the council presidency, largely staffed by conservative Church administrators from the Vatican curia, plan to alter council action already taken on religious liberty, the Jews and the sharing of papal-episcopal power.

They also said "traditionalist elements" want to end the council quickly so as to leave undebated a schema on such modern world problems as overpopulation and birth control.

Pope John XXIII had faced a basic progressive - conservative clash from the very first week of the council in 1962. Joseph Cardinal Frings of West Germany was one of the progressive leaders then who insisted that the 12 council commissions be filled by a vote of all 2,500 council members, rejecting a slate packed with conservatives that the council directorate tried to rush into office.

Cardinal Frings was host to Sunday's meeting of the progressives.

During the council's second session last year, the progressive element emerged far stronger in numbers than its bishops had realized. But the conservatives have retained their strength in the council administration as well as in the curia.

Pope Paul has said repeatedly that he intends to continue the council the way Pope John envisioned it, as a means of renewing and streamlining Catholicism and to help further Christian unity.

Three Soviet Cosmonauts Land After 16 Orbits

physical conditions of space flight, and:

To continue the study of the effects of different factors of space flight on man's organism and to carry out extended medico-biological research in the conditions of a long flight."

Riding with Komarov were scientist Konstantin Feoktistov and Dr. Boris Yegorov.

The Russians announced the landing at "a preassigned spot" in the Soviet Union 75 minutes after the ship had returned to earth.

Aside from the announced general purposes of the flight — to test a multiseat spacecraft and conduct further medical research — only skimpy details were disclosed.

The Russians said a powerful new rocket launched the craft, but did not elaborate.

They gave no indication of the size of the capsule, although it apparently was larger and more advanced than anything the United States has fired aloft.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev promised the three cosmonauts a boisterous Moscow reception.

The flight fell far short of the previous record of 81 orbits by Soviet Lt. Col. Valery F. Bykovsky in June 1963. His flight lasted 119 hours and six minutes, just under five days.

In Washington, James Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said the Soviet feat was "a clear indication that the Russians are continuing a large space program for the achievement of national power and prestige."

U.S. officials pointed out that the American space program does not call for a similar feat until 1966. Two-man Gemini space ships are scheduled to go into orbit early next year, however.

As their flight neared its end, the three new space travelers reported "everything fine."

A Tass correspondent in the space flight control center said the medical control instruments relaying data from the craft showed the three men in fine condition. He reported:

"Their pulse rate never once rose over 70 since their entry into orbit. The lung supply with oxygen was satisfactory and all three slept well.

"Doctors regard this as an obvious result of the splendid conditions created in the cabin.

"This time . . . we are receiving from the space ship professional reports on the entire intricate complex of medical-physiological conditions."

The cosmonauts wore light woolen clothing rather than the heavy space suits worn on previous flights.

The Russians said they had not put aboard any equipment to overcome effects of weightlessness. They said the pilot reported the travelers were too busy to notice any such effects.

After the seven-hour break during the night, television and radio receivers were tuned in at the control center as the ship passed over Soviet soil and a picture of the cosmonauts appeared on the TV screen.

"The transmission began unexpectedly for them, and we saw the men engaged in their work," said Tass. "Vladimir was turning the pages of the flight log. Konstantin's face was obscured by his hand in the foreground. The doctor was writing something, apparently jotting down the results of medical observations. When they heard by radio that the earth was calling them, they all smiled at once."

The cosmonauts radioed that they slept in shifts and woke with hearty appetites.

During the night, Tass said, Feoktistov followed a crowded work schedule, making visual observations of the stars, checking the instruments aboard the ship and controlling the equipment.

At the 14th orbit the trio radioed: "Breakfasted with good appetite and pleasure. Feeling fine. Everything fine on board."

The size of the cabin was not given, but television views indicated the three might be cramped.

Japanese scientists in Tokyo estimated that the ship weighed 15 tons. The weight of the heaviest previous space craft disclosed by the Russians was five tons.

The Japanese expressed belief the booster rocket that put Voskhod into orbit was more powerful than America's Saturn 1 but had less thrust than Saturn 5, still being developed.

Voskhod was launched by "a new powerful rocket" from a cosmodrome at Baikonur, 1,250 miles southeast of Moscow.

The ship apparently landed in the same general area, where Southern Siberia meets Soviet Central Asia.

On a pass over the United States, the cosmonauts radioed greetings to the American people, Tass said.

"From aboard the space ship Voskhod, we wish the people of the United States of AKME sage said.

dent Johnson for federal assistance.

An estimated 2,500 persons were forced from their homes in the Kinston area by late Monday night as the crest of the river rolled through the town and countryside.

At Goldsboro, to the northwest, flood waters continued to fall but 1,200 of the 2,000 persons who left last weekend still were unable to return to their homes.

Civil defense workers said preliminary estimates placed damages in the wide flood area at $10 million. Hardest hit were Goldsboro, with $3.7 million loss and the town of Kinston and Wayne County, $1.5 million. Heavy losses were reported in Johnston County with lesser damage in Greene, Pitt and Beaufort counties.

The governor told President Johnson the exact areas of the emergency could not be determined at present because "many of our rivers and streams have not reached their flooding crest downstream."

cussing it with other generals.

If the SEATO countries accepted the proposal, the Vietnamese war effort would be more broadly-based. But it is doubtful they would accept it.

Johnson Says He Will Keep Torrid Pace

then, Texas and, very likely, other Western states.

Stumping through the Rocky Mountain states Monday, Johnson took direct aim at Barry Goldwater, the Ku Klux Klan and the John Birch Society.

Goldwater was a target in every appearance, but never by name; he was "our opponent" or "one candidate."

At Boise, Johnson said there may be no second chance for a president.

"The President of the United States has to be right the first time, and if he is not right the first time, there may be no second time for him to change his views or explain them or correct them, or there may be no time for the nation to change its choice."

Speaking off-the-cuff to a crowd in the Butte, Mont., civic center, Johnson raised a roar of applause with this shouted statement:

"I predict, if I am elected, that the extreme groups that have infected this country — the spotlight of publicity will be put on them and the Klan and the Birch Society and those others who preach hate will have their robes pulled open where the American people can see them."

In Denver, an especially large and especially noisy crowd heard Johnson assail Goldwater — "our opponent" — as one who believes "the child has no right to an education."

Johnson added: "I say every child has the right to as much education as he has the ability to take. His right does not end in high school. His right goes on through higher education, if he wants it and can use it. It continues until he has acquired the training to take a useful and rewarding place in society."

The President called for broad-scale efforts to aid education and youth training and suggested these as one means of combatting crime in the streets — a frequent topic in Goldwater's campaign speeches.

Zone Change Denied for $10 Million Complex

said he represented "a number of residents in the immediate area who wished to protest this zone change," pointed out there were 268 acres of business zoned property already in the area.

Attorney Don LaMora, representing Academy Boulevard Plaza Shopping Center, an 11.5 acre complex near the requested zoning change, said the proposed center would bring traffic congestion to the area. This, he said, would be a hazard to school children who must cross Academy Boulevard.

Smartt, and his planning consultant Byron Church, pointed out the growth needs of the area.

Smartt said the development of the entire 90 acres could reach a $10 million investment in seven years.

The City Planning Commission had approved the zoning change for all of the 90 acres.

Council will consider the 1965 budget, including the sales tax proposal, at 3 p.m. today.

ESCAPE TO WEST

GOETTINGEN, Germany (UPI)—Nineteen East Germans escaped to the West last week across the Communist' border "death strip," customs officials said Monday. One of the refugees was an 11-year-old boy who fled because his mother spanked him.

pared to link these Communists agents with an espionage ring involving Soviet officials at the United Nations and in Washington.

The government prosecutors also planned to show how easily the couple were able to obtain U. S. passport under "aliases" — a feat the State Department doesn't want aired in public because of embarrassmfent t a high-level official.

Significantly, Sokolov, a native of Tiflis, Russia, and his woman companion requested deportation to Czechoslovakia where the main Russian "espionage center" outside of the Soviet Union is located at Prague.

The couple, arrested here on July 2, 1963, by the FBI, fell under the G-men's surveillance after Sokolov sought employment at the Martin Aircraft Company, near Baltimore, where classified defense projects are handled. In their espionage operations, the couple gathered information on U.S. missile sites and atomic weapon shipments.

CHANGING POWER BLOCKS

One of the most controversial Central Intelligence Agency estimates now being circulated at the highest level of government involves the Communist Chinese attack on India in 1962 and the effect this conflict is having on East-West power blocs.

"While the formal relations among the powers involved have undergone but little change," the CIA estimate states, "in fact, the structure of power and especially the international posture of India has fundamentally changed."

It points out that India, despite a loss of territory to the Chinese Communists, apparently came out the winner; receiving large arms commitments from the U. S., Britain and Russia, despite her continued protestations of neutralism.

On the other hand, the CIA estimate stresses that "U. S. aid to India in turn upset the Pakistani, who feared the consequences of Indian rearmament."

The document states, "The Pakistani proceeded to improve their relations with China at the expense of their hitherto cordial relations with the U.S."

The conclusion: The U. S. was the big loser.

Richards Says U.S. Vaulters Will Set Record

TOKYO (AP) — Former pole vaulting champion, the Rev. Robert Richards, predicted Tuesday U.S. entries will win the Olympic pole vault and set a world record—if the weather is good.

"If the weather is bad, then the whole thing will be up for grabs," said Richards, winner at the 1952 Helsinki and 1956 Melbourne Olympics.

He said if the weather is bad some other vaulters including Pentti Nikula of Finland, could upset world record holder Fred Hansen and John Pennel, the first man to clear 17 feet.

"But if the weather is good, I believe Pennel and Hansen should win with Hansen possibly having the edge since Pennel has been bothered by a pinched nerve.

"I believe at least two men will break Don Bragg's 1960 Rome Olympic record of 15-4 by at least two feet."

Hansen has cleared 17 feet four times and holds the present world record of 17-4.

Richards, in Tokyo to cover the Olympic games for NBC, vaulted 14-9 to win his 1956 Olympic gold medal. He made a similar jump in the 1952 Olympics. His best jump has been 15-6.

The former Olympic star used a steel pole during his competitive days and was critical of the more flexible fiber glass pole popular among today's vaulters.

"We should have a rule stipulating the kind of materials which can be used for pole vaults," said Richards, "or we should stop calling the event the pole vault and call it the slingshot."

James Dickey, Tennis President, Is Dead at 72

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) —James B. Dickey, president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, died Monday after 42 years of activity in a sport he took up because "I didn't have time for golf." He was 72.

Dickey, who was elected USLTA president last February, was regarded as a moderate on the issue of whether to let amateurs compete with professionals.

"No one can say whether it will help or hurt the game," he said.

Dickey retired in 1960 as vice president of Tiffany's & Co. New York City jewelers.

He leaves his widow and a brother, Paul, of Atlanta.

Back Sutton Committee Formed Here

A committee of local people active in business and community affairs has been formed to work for the reelection of Supreme Court Justice Leonard Sutton.

Sutton, formerly a local attorney, is seeking election to a 10-year term on the bench of the Colorado Supreme Court. He now is completing his first full term. Sutton was first named to the bench in 1956 and then was elected to an eight-year term the same year.

Sutton is a Democrat and once served as chairman of the Democratic Party in El Paso SAN Committee for Judge Sutton are Don LaMora and Mrs. Betty A. Krouse.

Assisting the co-chairmen will be Robert B. Murray and William T. Eckhart as executive secretaries, with Mrs. Surilda McClaskey as treasurer.

Members of the executive committee are Rod Scorgin, Robert W. Johnson, Winford M. Griffin, Walter Drake, Dr. Samuel H. Brown, George M. Gibson and Kenneth E. Tolley.

In announcing the committee, LaMora said that its members are "proud of the outstanding record that Sutton has made as a justice of the highest court of Colorado."

Some of the members of the committee have been active in Democratic circles, some in Republican circles and others have maintained an independent view in campaigns past.

LaMora explained the view of the committee, "Big business will not train a man for eight years to a position of eminence and then dismiss him for arbitrary reasons."

He added, "Neither will an informed electorate commit the offense of waste of men of proven ability by selecting our judges on a strictly political basis. This committee believes that Judge Sutton's record justifies his return to the Supreme Court."

According to the committee's statement of purposes, formation of the group was prompted by concern for a growing tendency among voters when urged by political leaders to select members of the judiciary solely on the basis of partisan politics, without regard for the experience, fitness and ability of candidates for the courts.

LaMora said that the committee will "devote its efforts to informing all voters regardless of political affiliation of the eminent qualifications of Sutton, based upon his experience and accomplishments during his eight years as a justice of the Colorado Supreme Court."

Broncos' Tom Erlandson Is Sidelined

DENVER (UPI)—The Denver Broncos, still jubilant over Sunday's 33-27 upset win against Kansas City, had their joy somewhat dampened Monday.

Team physicians reported that linebacker Tom Erlandson suffered a broken arm and probably is lost for the season. Erlandson, a former Washington State star, was regular left linebacker. He now is playing in his third season with the Broncos.

Head coach Mac Speedie said Jim Price would take over the vacant spot for this Sunday's game against San Diego.

Bronco officials said star safetyman Goose Gonsoulin also may be out this Sunday. Gonsoulin suffered foot and ankle injuries in the Kansas City game.

Chenoweth, Evans Speak At NAACP Meeting Here

Congressman J. Edgar Chenoweth Sunday called the Civil Rights Bill "a good law, a strong law," but stressed that people are going to have to use good judgment in carrying out the bill.

Chenoweth spoke at a "Meet the Candidates" gathering along with Frank Evans, Democratic candidate for Congress, at a NAACP-sponsored meeting at Carpenters Hall.

Evans accused Chenoweth of voting "no" consistently on a large number of "important acts." He listed bills as far back as Chenoweth's "no" vote on the Marshall Plan and the aid to Greece and Turkey which "are generally credited with saving Western Europe from a Communist take-over after World War II."

Evans also cited "no" votes by Chenoweth including the Food Stamp plan, the Student Loan plan, the Vocational Education Act, the Mutual Security Act, the Minimum Wage Act, the 1963 tax cut, the tax credit for business investment bill, and the War on Poverty Bill.

Evans, when asked what legislation for the benefit of this district he thought would be important if he were elected to Congress, said this would be for the economic development of the Pikes Peak Region's natural resources, particularly water and the diversification of the region's industrial base.

In defense of the Administration's War on Poverty, or Economic Opportunity Act, Evans said that in the next 10 years 25 million people would join the labor force and not one single additional unskilled worker would be needed.

"The need for technical training and vocational education is crucial to keeping America's work force in pace with America's future," Evans said.

Chenoweth arrived late at the meeting, and did not hear Evans' remarks about his voting record. He addressed the gathering mainly on the Civil Rights Bill, pointing out that this Congress had passed "the most complete Civil Rights Bill in the history of the country." He noted there had been three such bills and he had voted for all three.

This last he called "the most comprehensive," noting that it was a bi-partisan effort.

Chenoweth said thre are "certain influences in Congress and on the outside" that have been against any Civil Rights, and stressed that Civil Rights must have all the support it can get from both parties to be successful.

"The only way you can get Civil Rights legislation is through bi-partisan efforts," he said. Chenoweth said this was not a perfect bill, that some parts may have to be changed, but he pointed out that Congress can't legislate "every possible relationship of man, although this bill went beyond what some of the sponsors expected of it."

"We can't do everything by legislation," he said, adding that personal relationships between the groups "must come from the hearts of men."

Chenoweth pointed out to NAACP members that some of their groups didn't want Civil Rights legislation, and cited cases in the North and the South where civil disobedience has been stirred up by moving too fast. "We could push too fast on this," he warned, but stressed that "we should get it in operation and see how it will work out."

VISIBLE AND INVISIBE CANCERS

Cancer detection involves diagnosing the disease before it gets a head start. All physicians are familiar with the methods used but some do not have the special equipment or training needed for all the tests. Best results are obtained when physical examinations are done annually.

Cancers of the skin, lips, mouth, tongue, and genitalia can be seen. Simple instruments uncover those in the nose, throat, larnyx, vagina, cervix, rectum, and the last part of the large intestine. In contrast, more complicated scopes requiring special technics are needed to detect carcinomas of the bronchi, esophagus, stomach, and urinary tract.

Another group of tumors can be felt when they get large enough. These include those in the salivary glands, thyroid, lymph glands, breast, rectum, prostate, testes, uterus, and ovaries. Some growths in the liver, pancreas, small intestine, lungs, kidneys, brain, bone, stomach, and esophagus are inaccessible and cannot be identified via ordinary examination. The X-ray is used for this purpose.

If tests are negative, but the disease is suspected, an exploratory operation is necessary. This is not always within the realm of cancer detection, because symptoms usually are present before surgery is recommended.

Not long ago a round, coin-sized shadow was discovered during a routine chest X-ray of a 65-year-old man. It was near the edge of a lung in an area that is inaccesible to the bronchoscope. An exploratory operation was done to determine whether cancer was present. It was, but the man will live.

Why is early detection improtant The cardinal symptoms of many malignancies usually develop after the lesion is well advanced. Pain, for example, usually does no occur until the disease spreads to other organs. At least 35 per cent of cancers in men and 65 per cent in women can be detected by direct examination.

TAPING FAT

This is best achieved by raising the foot of the bed 4 to 6 inches when sleeping, or hanging the head over the side of the bed from time to time during the night.

BRAIN TESTS

D. M. writes: Is it possible to determine by X-rays or other tests whether brain damage exists?

REPLY

Special X-ray studies, spinal fluid tests, and the electro-encephalograph are most helpful in this respect. The physician also relies upon the physical examination and the behavior of the individual.

Car Without Lights Chased to Durango

PAGOSA SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Patrolman Charles Aragon, spotting a car with one headlight out, gave chase Monday night—and wound up in Durango, 62 miles away.

Eight other law enforcement agencies sent cars to take part in the wild chase that reached speeds up to 85 miles an hour.

The motorist, Robert Glenn Bogner, 21, was forced to stop his car because of a chain across the road to Fort Lewis College. He fled on foot but stopped when a warning shot was fired.

En route, Bogner drove in and out of borrow pits and narrowly missed other cars, Aragon said.

Dist. Atty. Al Haas quoted Bogner's parents in Littleton as saying their son had attended Colorado State University as a chemistry student and was an outpatient this year at Fort Logan Mental Health Center southwest of Denver.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D. Ph.D.

Donna is an idolatress. She worships at the shrine of her womb. So she is now a panicky wife who feels suffocated by the fear that she will no longer be able to exert any physical allure for her husband. She thinks she will be chocked off from future emotional thrills after the age of 45.

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE T-494: Donna S., aged 42, is a neurotic wife.

"Oh, Dr. Crane," she moaned, "I keep running to one doctor after another for nerve medicine.

"For I get panicky and choke up. At night I may waken in terror and feel as if I am suffocating.

"But the doctors tells me my heart is O.K. and that I am just unduly nervous.

"Yet I can't help myself. At time I grow so moody I just sit and cry by the hour. What's wrong with me?"

Donna is scared!

She is about to panic because she is a slave to a false notion.

Like millions of women since the time of Adam and Eve, Donna has believed that she will be on the shelf after the age of 45.

She fears that her husband will no longer feel any strong physical affection for her after the menopause.

For Donna mistakenly regards her womb as a barometer of her sexual charm.

Women, wake up! Your womb is not primarily a sex organ, anyway!

It is chiefly excess baggage on your sexual anatomy, much as the vermiform appendix is also excess baggage on your intestinal tract!

You wives realize that after your appendix is removed, your enjoyment of food is not diminished!

Well, by the same token, after your womb is removed by surgery (hysterectomy) or stops its monthly function due to the fact that you have arrived at the age of 40 or 45, you can still function sexually as both a thrilling and thrillable wife.

"Dr. Crane," Donna finally asked, "why do women ever get this idea that their womb determines their physical charm?"

Well, they have usually noted that it starts to function in the middle teens and generally ceases in the middle forties.

Since that span of 30 years is linked with their period of youthful physical allure, they erroneously get the idea that their womb must be responsible.

It isn't. In fact, the womb can be surgically removed from a wife and her husband wouldn't even know the difference, unless he were told!

So will you jittery wives PLEASE get hep to medical facts?

Your womb is NOT the barometer of your sexual appeal to men!

However, if you believe the false notion that your womb is the seat of feminine appeal to men, then you can work yourself into an emotional snarl.

You can then shop around for tranquilizers, sedatives, shots of hormones, etc., and also become such nagging, tearful self-pitiers that you may actually drive your husbands away.

"Yes, Dr. Crane," Donna admitted, "but don't many men of middle age start chasing around with girls of 20 or 25?"

Yes, that is true, but their wives are usually to blame, for older women should exceed teen-agers if they play their cards seductively.

So send for my booklet "Menopausal Complexes of Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Ton-Mile Tax Said Is Ruining Business

DENVER (AP)—The Colorado Motor Carriers Association was told Monday night that the state's ton-mile tax is driving truckers through Wyoming and New Mexico.

Carroll Boyce, editor of "Fleet Owner," a trade publication, said the truck tax is not only economically burdensome but "as far as the paperwork is concerned, it's a monstrosity."

Boyce said truckers should support a move for a single set of regulations that would apply to trucking throughout the nation.

QUICK IDENTIFICATION

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Police Deartment has installed a "Facsimile Transmission" system between district stations and central headquarters to identify persons in custody.

Supt. O. W. Wilson said the system will reduce prisoner processing time by about six hours.

Previously when a man was taken into custody his fingerprints were taken and then sent to police headquarters by police mail for a check. Sometimes the man remained in the lockup for as long as six hours.

Supt. Wilson said the new system is the first known application of utilizing electrical transmission of fingerprints in the United States.

California's 18 national forests comprise one-fifth of the total area of that state.

Reporters From Abroad May Not Understand

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA) — Having a very firm conviction in this matter, we always offer our time and information freely to foreign newsmen who come to cover news events in this country. We feel there is nothing worse for the cause of international understanding than a visiting reporter who does not understand what he sees.

Consequently, after a rally of preteenagers for Bobby Kennedy the other evening, we were delighted to be stopped by a correspondent from a newspaper in Caracas. The American two-party system must come as a confusion of simplicity after Venezuela's 13-party presidential election last year.

"Perhaps you could tell me." he said; taking out his notebook. "Who is the Professor Paolucci?"

"Henry Paolucci," we explained, "is the Conservative party candidate for the U.S. Senate from New York state."

"Equal in the contest with the Senator Keating and the brother Kennedy?" he asked.

"Yes," we said. "The same political race."

"And the Professor Paolucci?" he asked. "Where he stands?"

"Paolucci," we explained, "has endorsed Barry Goldwater."

"Ah. I see," he said, writing something in his notebook. "And the Republican Keating?" "No," we said, "Keating has not endorsed Goldwater."

"So these people with the Goldwater buttons who come to boo at the Senator Keating," he said. "These people will vote for the Professor Paolucci?"

"No," we said. "A lot of them will probably vote for Keating."

"Keating?" he said, crossing out something in his notebook.

"Certainly," we said. "Barry Goldwater has endorsed Keating."

"This word endorse," he said. "What it means exactly?"

"It means," we said slowly so he could write it down, "that one person publicly approves of another."

"But the second does not have to approve back again?" he asked.

"No," we said "It is not necessary."

"Does it sometimes happen?" he asked.

"Occasionally," we said.

Do you know of any instance?" he asked. "It would make a nice human interest story for my newspaper."

"Well," we said, "Robert Kennedy has endorsed Charles Buckley who is a very important Democratic party leader in the Bronx."

"And Mr. Buckley?" he asked "He has endorsed the brother Kennedy?"

"Oh yes," we said. "Mr. Buckley has endorsed Mr. Kennedy."

"Estupendo," the newspaperman said. "Perhaps you could point out to me which man is Mr. Buckley?"

"No," we said. "They seem to have an agreement not to be seen together in public."

"Ah, I see," he said closing his notebook. "And a million thanks for your kindness."

"Not at all," we said, glad to have been of some help and certain from his firm handshake that he would do the same for us when we were next in his country.

U.S. Won't Give Up Rights to Berlin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Departments says that the United States has "no intention of giving up our right of access" to Communist-controlled East Berlin.

"We are continuing on a daily basis to exercise our rights of that access and have no intention of altering or giving up this practice," department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Monday.

He was responding to a question based on a statement retired U.S. diplomat Robert D. Murphy was reported to have made in Berlin. Murphy was quoted as saying it seemed to him the United States was ready to agree to being denied such access.

Broadcasting, Being Stifled, Industry Told

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Colorado broadcaster Rex G. Howell said Monday federal communications rules intended to enforce fairness in editorial opinion have a stifling effect on broadcasters' freedom of expression.

Howell, general manager of KREX in Grand Junction, Colo., addressed the Western fall conference of the National Association of Broadcasters. He is chairman of the NAB's Radio Board of Directors.

Howell expressed approval of the intent of the fairness doctrine, which says radio and television stations may express editorial opinion but have an obligation to allow broadcast of conflicting views.

He said this leaves too much latitude to the commissioner.

"Personally," Howell said, "I have great faith in the integrity and intelligence of the men who comprise the present FCC ... however, we have had unwise administrators before, and it is reasonable to assume that we may one day have them again."

Howell said the doctrine would inhibit broadcasters fearful of violating it from getting into any area of controversy.

"When efforts are made to define precisely what is fair in a given situation," he said, "trouble is bound to come; for what may be fair at one time or place can, with only slight change in circumstances be foul at another."

Howell said the responsibility for enforcing fairness should rest primarily with the broadcaster, not the government.

"The FCC should continue to encourage the voicing of controversy on the air," he concluded, "but it should recognize the basic inconsistency in policy which at the same time insists that the execution of fairness will be closely supervised."

LBJ May Have About Europe Second Thought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson is expected to have some second thoughts about his recently disclosed idea for a visit to Western Europe before the end of the year if he is elected.

The betting in diplomatic quarters is that he will not make such a journey until after the Jan. 20 inauguration — assuming his election. Some top advisers believe it should be postponed until next year for diplomatic reasons and reports from Europe tend to support them.

In addition, the American public most probably would not like to have the Chief Executive make such a trip abroad until a vice president is duly installed.

Diplomatic officials see little to be accomplished by a trip during November or December. There have been reports Johnson would appear at the NATO meeting in Paris and make quick calls on several Allied government chiefs.

The French have made it as clear as they politely can that President Charles de Gaulle is not interested in a meeting with Johnson which would be but one in a general round of calls by the U.S. president.

Paris believes any meeting between the two should be carefully prepared and stand on its own. A hasty and inconclusive conference, in the French view, would serve merely to call attention to the wide differences between the two countries on NATO nuclear strategy and global policy which cannot be narrowed in the foreseeable future.

Britain, no matter which side wins its general election on Thursday, is not likely to be ready to discuss the main problem between the two countries—London's reluctance to join the proposed NATO nuclear fleet being pushed by the United States and West Germany.

Finland Starts Youth Clubs For Teenagers

By AILEEN SNOODY

HELSINKI, Finland — (NEA) — Formation of a midget racing car club got a group of aimless teenagers off the tree-lined streets of a Helsinki suburban community. But its organization did more than busy idle hands. It shed new light on the broadening role of youth clubs in Finland.

And for a visiting American, the story of the Tapiola youth club and the network of its counterparts seemed to carry a message for many U.S. communities.

The city fathers of Tapiola had spent six months trying to deal with their problem of street-gathering young people. Finally a representative of the Youth Association of Finland suggested the racing car idea. Now members of the club build their own cars—similar to American go-carts — and race them on a supervised sports car track. They're too busy to get into trouble.

The Youth Association is the national headquarters for the 1,403 youth clubs in this country. The setup is similar to that of the Kiwanis, with local, district and finally national membership. Said a Youth Association spokesman:

"Our young people, like those everywhere, are being pulled apart by so many alternatives and decisions that they don't know what way to turn.

"We feel we have succeeded in reaching the 'lonely youth!' "

In a nation of 4½ million persons, being a member of some youth club is getting to be almost as vital to those 15 and over as strapping on their first skis for a cross-country run.

The political implications of being able to draw upon other resources in other countries.

One recent success (which has worked in some U.S. cities, too) are "youth cafes" where teenagers meet to dance and drink soda pop. "Our club members who helped start these," he explained, "Then go to the aimless ones and encourage them to join a club. If they belong to some club and not a gang, then they have an interest in something and aren't just aimless."

Counseling also is relatively new to club activity in Finland. The Big Brother approash often is used, but unfortunatly there is a shortage of trained youth workers here too. More "youth" pastors are being trained to stimulate growth of church affiliated clubs which are a minor factor at present.

What do Finnish teen-agers want help with? The same thing as their American counterparts: (1) advice on choosing a profession, and (2) how to get along with people.

There is some governmental and municipal money but clubs build clubhouses and support themselves on money from as many as 35,000 festivals and amateur theatrical productions each year. Tourists to the smaller Finnish towns are treated to rousing folk dances put on by folk dancing club members.

One such dance group will tour the United States and Canada in November and December. The 30 members represent many folk dance clubs and it took 15 years of planning and saving so they could appear in such cities as New York; Fitchburg, Mass; Duluth, Minn; Marquette, Wis; Milwaukee; Waukegan, Ill.; Cleveland and Ashtabula, Ohio, and Toronto and Sudbury, Ont.

Americans who see the Finnish group may wonder at the age of some of these "youth" club members. Once a member, always a member, the Association exective explained.

In fact, the youth association also thinks it has a key to helping the older person meet retirement.

"Being a member of a youth group from age 15 to 60 or 65 helps a man or woman retire," the spokesman said. "They spend most of their lives having an interest. When they retire, it is easier for them to keep active, choose new interests."

CU Is Asking Increase in Its Budget

DENVER (AP) — A budget calling for a 25 per cent increase in state funds for 1965-66 was adopted on a 5-0 vote Monday by the University of Colorado regents.

Frank A. Kemp of Denver, Republican appointee seeking a six - year term in November, called the budget too high and refused to vote. He said it asks too much in state funds.

The budget, totaling $36.8 million, will be submitted to the legislature early in 1965.

The total—an increase of 18 per cent over the current budget—calls for $22.5 million in appropriated state funds, an increase of $4.6 million. The additional $14.4 million would come from tuition and other income of the university.

The university annually handles, in addition to the general fund budget, more than $20 million in sponsored research, residence hall operations and their activities.

The regents voted to seek $3.3 million for the School of Medicine, $729,000 for the School of Nursing, $3.2 million for Colorado General Hospital, $2.2 million for Colorado Psychopathic Hospital and $78,000 for the Children's Diagnostic Center.

The budget would permit an average faculty salary increase of nine per cent, CU President Joseph R. Smiley said. He said an increase of 16,000 students is expected next fall at the Boulder, Colorado Springs and Denver campuses.

Most State Crops Escape Frost

DENVER (AP)—Most crops in Colorado have reached harvest without damage from frost.

The Colorado Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, in announcing this, noted the killing frost that hit northeastern Colorado in late September. However, most of the corn and sorghum had matured.

Light frost nipped San Luis Valley potatoes in August.

The report said that dry soil delayed the seeding of winter wheat, with 70 per cent of the intended acreage planted by Oct. 1.

Wife Hopes for Bush Pilot's Happy Landings

By PETED J. HAYES
United Press International

NOME, Alaska (UPI) — It's not good to be a worrier if you are the wife of an Alaska bush pilot.

Mary Pilcher's husband, Harold, belongs to the daring breed of men who fly in the land of the Eskimo and the Midnight Sun. The weather is treacherously changeable and landing strips are few and far between, although bush pilots think nothing of landing on the tundra or a frozen river.

Pilcher flies for Wien Alaska Airlines. Mrs. Pilcher said the line had lost an average of one pilot per year as the result of accidents.

"I thought I lost "Pilch' three different times, but he always showed up," the attractive blonde said.

"Once a friend at FAA called and told me he was just then making a crash landing on the ice and they would call me back in 10 minutes to let me know if he made it or not. He did.

"I don't worry about him now. I figure his three narrow escapes completed the bad luck cycle. I guess it's the Irish in me."

She keeps an aeronautical radio turned on in her home so she can keep track of her husband's comings and goings.

"When I hear he's on his way in I get dinner ready. We have a quiet meal together — he's too tired to talk much.

"But in the morning I give him breakfast in bed. Over coffee he tells me what happened the day before."

The Pilchers have been markddi 15 years. Mrs. Pilcher works in a Nome curio shop.

Each May, after the long darkness-filled winter, the Pilchers go "outside" for several weeks vacation. Because he's an airline employe, they travel cheaply on other lines under reciprocal fare agreements. After visits to San Francisco, New Orleans and Davenport, Iowa, her former home, they're ready to return to their home on the Bering Sea.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

His God Is Mammon!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a very good provider, but he has made money his god. He thinks he can do no wrong as long as he isn't taking the bread out of his family's mouth. I caught him with another woman, and he said, "So what? I've never spent a dollar on her. She pays for everything!" When he drinks, he thinks it is all right because he has an expense account and can drink on company money. He has never denied me anything I wanted, I will say that for him. But I wish I could get it through his head that I would rather have more of HIM and less of his money. —BIG SHOT'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Since he has never denied you anything, ask him for one more personal favor. Ask him to lay out $25 an hour for an explanation of why he thinks a fat bank account buys him immunity from decent behavior. In this way his "god" could really help him.

DEAR ABBY: When a fellow asks a girl for a date, is it all right for the girl to ask him where they are going? Also when a girl and her date go to different schools and their schools play each other in basketball or football, whose side do they sit on? Please put your answers in the paper as I am having a big argument with somebody over the answers. —O. O.

DEAR O. O.: Yes, it is proper for a girl to ask the boy where they are going. How else would she know whether to dress for a movie or a weiner roast? They sit on the boy's side. He's the host—unless, of course, she has come up with the tickets.

DEAR ABBY: I notice that you, too, have heard from "IN LOVE," who says she is in love with her doctor. She states that her doctor has no such feelings for her, and she is so right! I am her doctor. Please tell "IN LOVE" to quit sending me those birthday cards, and other messages, which she addresses to me at one of the hospitals where I visit. I have no mail privileges there, and the stuff is simply readdressed and sent to my home or office. I have one heck of a time explaining that it is from "one of those nuts." (Anyway, how did she learn my birth date?) In short, I don't want any mail I have to worry about. Sign me, —EMBARRASSED IN CINCINNATI

DEAR ABBY: How can you tell someone that he eats like it is his last meal on earth? Abby I am so embarrassed when we have company, or when we are invited to someone's house for a meal. The noise that is made by that man when he is chewing and swallowing is just terrible. He sounds like an animal. I can't tell him because he is my father. —EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: You are right. You can't. But your mother can. Why don't you tell her to tell him? It is a perfectly legitimate complaint.

Troubled? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelop.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market nudged irregularly higher early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

Most of the excitement was over recent speculation favorites while the market wheelhorses showed minor changes for the most part.

A slightly higher trend prevailed among airlines, aerospace issues, rails and chemicals.

Polaroid's 4-for-1 split proposal was the sensation of the day. The stock surged ahead more than 5 points, then clipped its gain to about 3.

Steels were a little lower on balance and motors were scrambled as the General Motors strike dragged on.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 329.6, a little above its record closing high of Monday. Industrials rose .4, rails .2 and utilities .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon off .47 at 877.10.

Among speculative issues, Erie - Lackawanna, Monday's second most active stock, was up a full point, making another new high. Pacific Tin continued its day-to-day rise, gaining a full point and also making a new high.

Prices rose in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange change.

Corporate bonds were nixed. U.S. government bonds were steady in light dealings over the counter.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavy liquidation by longs forced prices for soybean futures sharply of Trade. Wheat, corn, oats and lower late today on the Board rye were down fractions near the end of the session.

Losses in soybeans ranged up to more than nine cents a bushel at times despite several attempted rallies.

Selling of soybeans resulted from a Department of Agriculture report that placed production this season at 698 million bushels, which was considerably higher than the trade had expected.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat 39, corn 144, oats 5, barley 3, soybeans 336 and rye none.

Two American Boxers Win Olympic Bouts

TOKYO (AP) — Featherweight Charlie Brown of Cincinnati and light middleweight Toby Gibson of Spokane, Wash., won their first bouts Tuesday in the Olympic boxing tournament.

Brown opened the day's scheduled with a unanimous decision over Randall Hope of Australia. The 25-year-old Brown, using his right to great advantage, battered Hope but didn't escape a beating himself. At the finish, Brown was bleeding rather badly with a nasty gash above his right eye.

Gibson stopped Yot Thiancharden of Thailand at 57 seconds of the second round. Referee E. P. Jetchev halted the bout after the 22-year-old Gibson dropped the Thai with a vicious barrage of punches.

Thiancharden went down for a mandatory eight count, then looked groggy as he got back up. That's when Jetchev stopped it.

Professionals Not Affected by Sweepstakes

By JERRY SHEEHAN

CONCORD, N.H. (NEA) — In any gambling operation it is hard to keep out the professionals. A major headache of the New Hampshire state sweepstakes operators was a small invasion by sweeps ticket brokers, who quickly sniffed a fast greenback.

One broker in Concord mailed tickets to anyone for $3.50 and 10 per cent of any winnings. Another operator just charged a flat $4. These and other entrepreneurs are now closed down and under indictment by the federal government for using the mails for gambling purposes.

Generally, however, the sweeps has had little effect on normal undercover gambling in the state. A bookmaker working in a Manchester shoe factory admitted that his numbers clients are still making their bets. It's cheaper than the $3 sweeps.

These were minor problems to commissionaer Howell F. Sheperd and his colleagues. Before the millions had a chance to get wrinkled in the vaults of the state treasury, Washington moved in with a tab for $573,000; the Internal Revenue Service demanded 10 per cent of the money gained from a gambling operation.

The frugal New Hampshirites paid with tears in their eyes and under protest. "How," they ask, "can a state be considered a gambler?" Their appeal is due for court hearing.

Yet, as the problems are ironed out, the commissioners look forward to doubling the $5.7 million take in the coming year.

There is talk of placing sweeps booths at turnpike toll stations near state borders to catch visitors before they have time to waste their money. New Hampshire thus may become the first gambling house in history to offer drive-in service.

Some grumbling has been heard from educational quarters like the Council for Better Schools—not so much in opposition to the sweeps but because there is no guarantee that the added revenue will be used by local school districts to which the money must legally go. It is possible that some school systems may simply use the money to reduce real estate taxes — the major source of school support.

However, the sweeps money, according to the state tax commissioner's office, only supplies about 2 per cent of the educational costs. These costs are rising by about 5 per cent each year. The relief afforded by sweeps money may be temporary and limited, though welcome.

Remembering that eight in ten tickets are sold to visitors, state leaders, are keeping an interested eye on lottery proposals elsewhere. Obviously, if sweepstakes fever spreads widely through the nation, New Hampshire's windfall will decrease.

Business Gets Green Light for Foreign Trade

By TOM NOLAN

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Many American businessmen view the newly approved, two-year extension of the massive Food for Peace Program as a green light for expansion abroad.

The bill—part of President Johnson's "must" list of legislation — authorizes $3.5 billion in sales and grants of U.S. farm underdeveloped free countries.

Originally conceived 10 years ago as a method of disposing of the rapidly increasing American farm surpluses and for feeding the world's hungry, the Food for Peace Program in some cases is now substituting food for dollar foreign aid.

Many legislators call it a major foreign policy tool. How it works:

Needy and dollar-short countries pay for the commodities in foreign currencies. This money is then turned around to—

Finance expenses of U.S. agencies, such as Agency for International Development (AI) and (U.S.) information Agency (USIA), operating in the recipient country.

Develop new markets for American agricultural products.

Speed economic growth in the recipient country through loans to the foreign governments.

Encourage development by private means through loans to U.S. businesses operating abroad and to expansion-minded foreign firms.

To facilitate the accomplishment of this last objective, Congress has broadened the provisions of the so-called "Cooley" amendment-named for its sponsor, Rep. Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C.

The Cooley amendment originally set aside up to 25 per cent of the foreign currencies received for the purpose of making loans to U.S. and foreign administered by AID.

In contrast, 63 per cent ha been loaned or granted to foreign government during this time—18 per cent in grants and 45 per cent in loans.

In some countries, notably Brazil, no funds have been reserved for Cooly loans.

In other countries, such as Turkey and India, AID in the

In contrast, 63 per cent has served for Cooley loans.

would be made available only for fixed investments and not for working capital arrangements. For example, they could be used to streamline production techniques, but not to pay salaries.

"This is not what Congress intended," says Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., ranking minority member of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee.

"It does no good to make a loan to a private operator to construct a plant and lend the money to him at 6 per cent if he must then go out and pay 30 to 40 per cent for the capital re-

An AID spokesman claimed that it was necessary to apply the restriction because the demands on available funds in some countries were much greater than the supply. Only by eliminating their use as working capital, he says, could a reasonable number of loan applications be approved.

Yet in Turkey, as of June 30, 1964, Congress learned that some $9.2 million worth of Turkish currency was on hand to supply loan applications of $2.1 million.

Scoring the "making of loans on a restricted basis," both the House and Senate voted to eliminate the 25 per cent ceiling on Cooley funds. The law now reads: "Currencies shall also be available to the maximum usable extent" for Cooley loans.

It flatly orders AID to take whatever steps are necessary to provide the funds needed to satisfy all loan requests which are likely to bring about "business development and trade expnsion." The agency, however must have reasonable assurance the loan will be repaid.

Elsewhere, the law specifically requires AID to establish an adequate reserve of funds to meet anticipated requirements —both for fixed assets investment and working capital needs.

"What more can we ask for?" said one interested businessman.

Several lobbying organizations for U.S. businesses are already urging their clients to file applications for Cooley loans as soon as possible.

Tropical Storm Goes Towards Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Tropical Storm Isbell continued her slow track toward the westernmost tip of Cuba today and the Miami Weather Bureau predicted an increase in intensity.

Early today the 11th tropical storm of the season was located 450 miles southwest of Miami.

This position placed the center of the storm and its 50-mile-an-hour winds about 70 miles south-southeast of Cape San Antonio, Cuba.

The Weather Bureau said the eye of the storm was moving northeast at about five miles an hour. It was expected to remain on this course, increasing slowly in intensity, for the next 12 to 18 hours.

Humorist Decides to Defend Okra

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It was the old American custom of rooting for the underdog that caused me to take up the cudgels for okra.

Okra is to the vegetable world what the New York Mets are tobaseball. It is at the bottom of the standings. There are some who claim it is not fit to eat, just as there are some who claim that what the Mets play isn't baseball.

And yet to know okra is to love it.

When Tom Buchanan, cofounder of the New Okra Institute of America, recently invited me to join the great okra crusade, the first thing I did was check around to see why okra was so lowly regarded by so many people.

My studies lead me to believe that part of the trouble stems from word association. Okra has been used in verbal contexts that are bound to create unfavorable impressions in the public mind.

For example, one of the major encyclopedias defines okra as "a herbaceous hairy annual plant." This may be technically accurate, but it sounds rather unappetizing.

Would you knowingly eat a plant that was both herbaecous and hairy? Of course not. The very thought causes a person's taste buds to run for the bomb shelter.

Or take Clemson University, which is one of okra's best friends. Its horticultural department developed a new variety of okra that has done much to improve the breed.

Unfortunately, however, they named the plant "Clemson spineless okra." For more people, the word "spineless" has an unflattering connotation. It implies a lack of courage or fortitude.

Actually, of course, okra is one of the most heroic of all vegetables. It has done far more for mankind that mankind generally realizes.

In Turkey, okra seeds are sometimes used as a substitute for coffee. Elsewhere in the Near East, okra leaves and immature pods have long been used in poultices and fomentations.

A Marquette University research team recently announced that it had been able to convert okra pods into an inexpensive and plentiful substitute for blood plasma.

And now, in still another potential contribution to the welfare of the human race, okra is being investigated for possible use in the treatment of ulcers.

Besides all of this, okra has a high mucilage content, making it the ideal ingredient for holding shrimp gumbo together.

In short, okra represents true nobility. The next time you hear people say it is herbaceous, hairy and spineless, I urge you to punch them right in the nose.

Farm Drought Aid Becomes Political Issue

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's farm drought aid program has been tossed into the political campaign by the American Farm Bureau Federation, a critic of strong federal farm programs.

In its weekly newsletter to members, the farm organization said the extent of aid offered by the Agriculture Department has hit a new high.

"How much of the drought relief is warranted by drought conditions and how much is the result of efforts to make farmers happy before election?" the Farm Bureau asked.

Department officials said only one factor has been taken into accounty in granting aid—actual need.

The department's major aid is in the form of privileges to graze livestock or harvest hay on land which has been diverted from any use, other than conservation, and of buying of government-owned surplus feed grains at reduced prices.

The privilege of grazing or harvesting hay from land idled under a payment program has been extended to 1,047 counties in 28 states. The access to cheap feed has been extended to 336 counties in 20 states.

Officials said extension of drought aid is based in most cases on recommendations of state officials.

In addition to the privilege of using idled land and of buying low-cost feed, needy farmers in 800 counties in 25 states have been granted the privilege of obtaining emergency government loans to carry continued operations.

Farm Bureau leaders said that the fact the need for these programs was being raised in many farming areas suggests there may be some "political motivation" in the department's activity.

Conservatives In Britain Said Losing Ground

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's ruling conservative party lost more ground today in public opinion polls. But the opposition Labor party's chances in Thursday's parliamentary election were hurt by a wildcat subway strike in London.

The Conservatives, seeking to avoid defeat after 13 years in power, drafted 38 cabinet ministers to campaign full-time up and down the country in the final two days of the campaign.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas - Home was scheduled to make a personal appeal for support to the nation tonight in television and radio broadcasts.

The London Daily Express popularity Poll published this morning gave the Conservatives a slim 0.9 per cent edge over Labor, compared to 3.2 per cent a week ago. The Daily Mail's popularity poll Monday put the margin at 0.1 per cent. The Sunday Telegraph last Sunday gave Labor a 6 per cent lead.

Publication of the findings of the various popularity polls, however, did not take into account the wildcat subway strike. The strike, political observers believe, could reverse or halt the downward trend of the conservative party edge.

Burlington Will Buy $20.5 Million In Freight Cars

President Harry C. Murphy announced today that directors of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad had approved plans to purchase or construct in company shops 1,125 new freight cars, at a cost of $20.5 million.

To help alleviate critical car shortages, Burlington will build 400 70 - ton box cars. Each will have a 14 - foot door opening, plus special grain access door to permit faster and heavier loading of grain.

An additional 200 box cars will be insulated, and have cushion underframes and load dividers. Thirty - five more box cars will have cushion underframes, damage - free load restrainers and double- slide, 15 - foot doors.

Two hundred mechanically refrigerated, hydraulic undercushioned cars will be built, primarily for transporting fresh meat Half the cars will contain meat rails, the others will have load dividers.

For unit train service between southern Illinois coal fields and the new Union Electric plant at Machens, Missouri, 140 jumbo coal cars with automatic dumping equipment will be built, probably of aluminum. The 100-ton cars will transport 7,000 tons of coal each day, five days per week.

Expansion of steel plants in the Chicago area has produced a need for more covered gondola cars to carry coiled tin plate, stainless steel and steels requiring protection from weather. Burlington will build 100 such cars, equipped with hydraulic cushioning, removable roof sections and high sides.

Fifty Airslide covered hopper cars of 70-ton capacity will be purchased, principally for carrying beet sugar and flour.

Last Old Range War May Come to an End

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)—The nation's last range war may come to an end Thursday when members of the so-called Abiquiu Corp. appear before Santa Fe Dist. Judge Samuel Z. Montoya.

Montoya earlier this week issued a temporary injunction against the 135-member corporation, ordering them to appear Thursday and show why the injunction should not be made permanent and the corporation declared invalid.

Behind the action were recent eviction notices sent out by the corporation to all land owners, including the states of New Mexico and Colorado, within the Tierra Amarilla land grant in Northern Rio Arriba County. The eviction notices said the land was owned by the heirs of Jose Manuel Martinez and his eight sons, who received the grant originally from Mexico in 1832.

New Lightweight 2-Cycle Engines To Go on Market

Plans to market a pair of completely new, lightweight 2-cycle "Power Bee" industrial engines have been announced by The West Bend Company's Engine Division, Hartford, Wis.

According to R. W. Hughes, industrial engine sales manager, the new models are designed to meet the demand for maximum horsepower in the smallest possible package. Hughes described it as the "modern compact concept" in industrial engines.

Paul Quick, assistant chief engineer for West Bend's Engine Division and designer of the new engines, said:

"Manufacturers of portable power equipment are interested in such features as maxiumum horsepower per pound and maximum horsepower per cubic inch of displacement. They want complete flexibility of mounting with regard to engine position.

Both of the new models are in the 3-4 h.p. range. Extremely compact in size, they weigh less than 10 lbs. each and measure only 9" in height, 7" in width, and 9" in depth. All major castings are of die cast construction, using aluminum and magnesium alloys. All bearings are of the anti - friction type. The engines are self - lubricated by a fuel-oil mixture and have diaphragm - pump carburetors which permit the engines to run in any position.

Would you make these 5 common mistakes in investing?

Mistake #1: Shoot for the moon. The down-to-earth investor takes a practical view of what he hopes his investment will achieve. His goal may be a second income or growth in the value of his stock as the years fly by. Perhaps he invests for the protection of principal and relative stability of income that bonds often offer. One of the most important first steps you can take is to fix your goal clearly in mind.

Mistake #2: Invest every cent you can lay your hands on. A wise investment program can brighten your financial future, but of course first things come first. Today's living expenses and a reserve for emergencies have first call on your money. Generally speaking, it's a good rule to consider investing only funds that you don't expect to need in the near future.

Mistake #3: Put your money on a "can't miss" stock. There's no such thing. It's true that many stocks have grown in value over the years, and more than 500 stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange have paid cash dividends for 25 years or more. But it's a wise investor who considers that stock prices change, for many reasons. Dividends can change, and at times companies may even stop paying them. That's why your cool evaluation of both the risks and rewards can be so important.

Mistake #4: Leap before you look. If you've worked up a good head of steam about a stock, ease up. Before you invest your money, invest your time in getting facts. One good place to look for information is in a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. Ask about a company's earnings, dividends, plans that it has announced—and for an opinion about its competitive position and its prospects. Then see what you think. Facts and judgment are the best cure for a heady urge to plunge.

Mistake #5: Tell yourself any brokerage firm will do. The fact is, you should give thoughtful consideration to your selection. Make sure you feel comfortable with the firm and have confidence in it. Member Firms of the New York Stock Exchange have their own characteristics but all are expected to follow Exchange regulations. And Registered Representatives had to meet Exchange requirements for knowledge of their business when they became brokers in Member Firms. They're not infallible. Who is? But they can help you reach important investment decisions and will welcome you.

Meredith Has Trouble In Liberian School

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — James H. Meredith, the American Negro who broke the color barrier at the University of Mississippi, says he'll leave Nigeria if arrangements for his studies are not concluded as "honorably as they had been begun in the United States."

Meredith came to Nigeria about two months ago to study at Ibadan, reportedly on a scholarship provided by the Nigerian government. He said the scholarship was offered by officials of the Nigerian Embassy in Washington, but that the scholarship has not been made available and no government official had discussed it with him since his arrival.

'Not Accountable,' Ike About Goldwater

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower says his fellow Republican, presidential candidate Barry Goldwater, "could not be held accountable" for every statement he made as a senator.

Eisenhower, speaking Monday night to 500 Republicans at a $10-a-plate dinner, said of Goldwater:

"For a long time he was a freewheeling senator and could not be held accountable for everything he said. Today, there is nothing flip, no impulsiveness about him."

More Women Jump Into Political Fray

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—A number of women holding high state and national offices are bidding for re-election this year, and a great many more have jumped into the political fray for the first time.

A few of the newcomers could make political history in their respective states if they win.

In general, the lady candidates tend to voice the belief that they can do just as good a job—and maybe even better — than the menfolk.

Some unusual situations developed as the distaff division doffed aprons to battle for ballots.

In several major races it's a woman vs. woman showdown.

A 74-year-old woman is seeking a ninth term in the Massachusetts State Senate.

Men have plumb given up trying for the office of secretary of state in New Mexico.

An Iowa woman has a chance to become the first Negro to serve in her state's legislature.

In several states there isn't a single woman running for statewide or congressional office.

Among those seeking re-election are several veteran congresswomen.

One of the most prominent is Rep. Frances P. Bolton, Ohio Republican who has served since 1939. She was the first woman elected to Congress in Ohio.

Others include Reps. Katharine St. George, New York Republican first elected in 1946; Edna F. Kelly, New York Democrat who has served since 1949; Leonor K. Sullivan, Missouri Democrat who became the state's first congresswoman in New Jersey Republican first elected in 1956.

Still others are Washington state's two women representatives, Catherine May, a Republican first elected in 1958, and Julia Hansen, a Democrat who has served since 1960.

A woman candidate for the U.S. Senate this year is Genevieve Blatt, 50-year-old Pennsylvania state secretary of internal affairs and the first woman ever to hold state office in Pennsylvania. She was elected to the state office in 1954 and has been re-elected twice.

Miss Blatt, a Democrat, is running against Republican S. Hugh Scott. The race is expected to be close.

Another senatorial candidate is Mrs. Elly Peterson, a Republican and the first woman nominated by a major party for the post in Michigan. Her opponent is democratic Sen. Philip Hart.

In Illinois, the fight for the 15th District congressional seat pits a woman against another woman. Republican Rep. Charlotte Reid, a 51-year-old widow who won the seat in 1962, is being opposed by Mrs. Poppy X. Mitchell, 46, a housewife making her first try for political office.

In Kentucky, the only woman running for a major office is Mrs. Frances Mills, 43-year-old Democratic nominee for Congress in the 5th District.

If elected she would be the first woman ever to represent the Democratic party as a Kentucky congresswoman. She also would be the second woman in Kentucky history to represent the state in Congress.

In Hawaii, State Sen. Patsy Mink, 36, the first woman of Japanese ancestry to be licensed to practice law there and the first to serve in the state legislature, is a Democratic candidate for Congress.

Already assured of a seat in Congress is a 55-year-old Georgia grandmother. She has no Republican opponent.

The first Negro to serve in the Iowa legislature may be a woman, Mrs. Willie Stevenson Glanton, a Des Moines attorney and wife of Municipal Judge Luther Glanton. She was the first woman prosecutor in Des Moines municipal courts.

The office of secretary of state in New Mexico has been a woman's world since 1922 and it's going to s'ay that way at least for two more years. The current officeholder, Mrs. Alberta Miller, a Democrat, has for her opponent Miss B. Lyman, a Republican.

The candidates for the same office in South Dakota are Miss Alma Larson, 32, a Republican, and Mrs. Travis Lewis, a Democrat.

In Arizona, Mrs. Jewel Jordan, a Democrat, is running for an eighth term as state auditor wi'h Republican Robert Hubbard as her opponent, and Mrs. Sarah Folsom, a Republican, is seeking to unseat Democrat W. W. Dick as state superintendent of public instruction.

SIMILARITY

Argentina resembles the young U.S. in many ways. Its 1,072,000 square miles amble across mountains, plains and prairies; there are deserts, lakes, lofty glaciers and primeval forests; its climate and products are much the same; it once was a colony and fought for its independence from Spain 150 years ago; and it welcomed immigration.

Sergeant Makes UF Gift of Appreciation

Sgt. 1.C. Otto J. Muszynski of the Ft. Carson Commissary "gladly" donated $25 toward the United Fund in the hope that the money will help others. The donation was made in appreciation of all the kindness shown his family when he was a boy.

Muszynski was one of 12 children in a Michigan family that was plagued with illness. At one point, seven were hospitalized at one time. A count showed that the family had spent 36 years in hospitals through illness that proved fatal to his father and four sisters.

Thankful for his own four healthy school-age children, and thankful for all the assistance given his parents in the past, Muszynski said he is happy that he can donate to the welfare of others.

In fact, he has been contributing to every worth cause ever since he was able.

District 20 New School To Be Built in One Phase

The proposed new junior high school for School Dist. 20 — Air Academy — will be built in one phase and not two as previously planned, if the forthcoming bond issue is approved by the voters.

The district board of education at its October meeting made the decision to plan that way for the building.

When the bond issue vote was first discussed, the board directed the planning to be for two - stage - construction, as it appeared the entire building could not be constructed at one time due to finances.

Since then, the district received $50,000 in federal funds.

The bond issue is set legally for $700,000. This will be voted on by the electors in the district on Oct. 29.

The proposed new building is to be located about two miles west of the tree line at the west edge of Black Forest on Burgess Road.

It will be designed to handle between 730 and 750 students, pupils in the 6th, 7th, and 8th grades, and will cost about $777,140, according to present estimates.

At this time, every school in the district has more students in it daily than it was designed to handle,, and the school population is expected to be larger next year.

The board decided to make a move now to participate in future educational TV that will be handled by Southern Colorado State College, Pueblo.

Burt Bittner, board secretary, reported that plans are well along for SCSC to have channel 8 for an educational channel.

He pointed out that Colorado has been allocated $680,000 in federal funds for educational TV in the state. The SCSC share of that is undetermined, but the school is expected to get at least $68,000 of that for work in the near future, Bittner reported.

SCSC already has a studio and an excellent program for training technicians, Bittner explained.

The district will indicate an interest in the Channel 8 operation to the Federal Communications Commission, SCSC, and School District 11, it was decided.

How much this will cost eventually, was not known, but the board agreed it would be willing to accept some financial responsibility.

Russell Wolf was named as board member to be a member of the Cooperative Vocational Education committee that directs the program the district shares in with the Manitou Springs, Cheyenne, Harrison and Fountain School districts.

The board went into executive session for about 25 minutes to discuss an item listed on the agenda as "Credit Union."

It was decided to buy a better public address system to be used for activities in the gym of the high school building and for football games.

Howard Dunning, superintendent of the district, reported to the board that a group identified as the Woodmen Valley Council has promised full support to the bond issue vote.

$1.2 Million Budget Set for District Re-1

A school budget of $1,251,819 for 1965 will be presented to the board of the Fremont School District Re-1 of the Canon City area at the board's regular meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The meeting, open to the public, will be held in the district's business offices in the Canon City Junior High School.

The budget represents an almost $90,000 gain from last year's budget of $1,164,035. If approved Wednesday night, the district's mill levy will go up to 29.6 mills from 28.03 mills required in 1964. The total levy, including assessments for various bond funds will be 37.64.

Biggest jump in the 1965 budget over last year's budget is more than $60,000 in money budgeted for salaries of teachers.

Last year the amount budgeted was $740,300 compared with $807,300 budgeted for 1965.

The hike was caused by increasing salaries of teachers in the district, and hiring five and one-half new teachers in the system.

All non - certified employees received salary increases of $100 per year.

Actual district cost per pupil has gone up about $20, it was reported, from $412.70 in 1963-64 to about $432 for 1964-65.

Major Springs Pipeline Project Starts This Week

A major Colorado Springs water pipeline project, delayed until after the close of the tourist season, was started this week in Chipita Park.

Installation of 10,530 feet of the 30 - inch pipe will involve excavation of the main roadway through Chipita Park and Jack McCullough said the contractor will make every effort to cause as little inconvenience as possible for residents in the construction areas.

The new pipeline will have an overall length of 16,800 feet and is designed to increase the water flow into the Colorado Springs' west side Mesa Filter Plant, thus making additional filtered water available to the Utilities Department's customers.

Contractor on the $560,065.90 contract is the Englewood firm of Burks & Company, Inc.

The new line will extend from an existing 24 - inch pipeline from reservoirs on the North Slope of Pikes Peak to an existing 20 - inch pipeline at French Creek. Eventually, the 30-inch line will be extended to the top of Mount Manitou, tying in with existing lines which carry water through the Manitou Springs hydro electric generation plant and thence to the Mesa Filter Plant.

You Can't Even Trust The Posse

Fremont County Sheriff Tom Coleman of Canon City has reported that Columbia Pictures, which filmed scenes in the Canon City area for the movie "Ballad of Cat Ballou," is looking for a Colt .45 caliber single action pistol, used in one scene during the filming.

Charles McCoy, property master, reported, in a letter to the sheriff, that the pistol was either stolen or lost while filming at Buckskin Joe.

McCoy said that rifles and pistols were issued to mounted members of a posse and some townsmen on foot, with all the properties returned, except the Colt pistol.

The pistol had a cream-colored handle with an embossed steer head and horns, and a barrel of polished steel.

Guns Taken From Display Cases

A trailer containing display cases for firearms was broken into over the weekend and several guns taken, according to police.

The trailer, parked at Larry Dummer's Auto and Marine on Fountain Creek Boulevard, belonged to Merrill Crocker, of Denver.

Padlocks on double doors on the side of the trailer had been cut with bolt cutters to gain entrance, police said. The burglary occurred between 615 p.m. Saturday and 3:32 p.m. Sunday.

Since the owner is on vacation in Arizona, police could not determine at press time how many of the guns were missing. Glass in several of the display cases was broken, however, and empty slots showed that 18 rifles and pistols were apparently missing.

Falcons Try to Regroup For Mizzou This Week

Convinced they have been beaten by one of the nation's best football teams, the Air Force Falcons face the un-enviable task of trying to rebound this week against another powerful squad — the University of Missouri.

Ben Martin's Falcons, beaten soundly by a great Notre Dame team, 34-7, before a Falcon Stadium record crowd of 44,384, will regroup this week in an effort to notch their first win over the Missouri Tigers in three tries.

Saturday's meeting will be the third gridiron clash between the Tigers and the Air Force, with Missouri owning 13-0, and 34-8 decisions in 1959 and 1960.

Notre Dame, back on top as a national grid power after a five-year absence, presented too much muscle for the fired up Falcons, and although the Cadets drew first blood, the mighty Irish defense gradually crushed the Air Force attack, and won going away as the Falcons were caught gambling in the game's late going.

Said Coach Ben Martin, "We could have held the score down in all probability, but we were there to win." Martin was referring to a pair of late interceptions that set up easy Notre Dame touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

Of the Fighting Irish eleven, Martin said, "They were an outstanding college football team on offense, but on defense they were pros." The Irish limited the Cadet ground game to a meager 37 yards net rushing, and the only solace the Falcons could find was that Notre Dame held Wisconsin and Purdue to a two-game total of only 30 yards.

Quarterback Tim Murphy continued to shine for the Cadets, as he connected on 10 of 15 first half passes, keeping the Falcons alive in a hard-fought first half which saw Notre Dame with a slim 14-7 margin at intermission.

Probably due for a lot of attention this week is the Air Force ground attack which has netted only 331 yards in four games, although the Cadets have faced some of the top defensive squads in the country so far.

Graef Breaks World Mark As Yanks Take All Medals

By TED SMITS
Associatd Press Sports Editor

TOKYO (AP) — Towering Jed Graef, a 2-year-old Princeton student, smashed the world record with a 2:10.3 effort Tuesday and led an American 1-2-3 sweep of medals in the men's 200-meter backstroke championship in the Olympic Games.

Garry Dilley of Huntington, Ind., was second and Bob Bennett of Long Beach, Calif. third in the American sweep that pushed the Yankee harvest of Olympic medals to 10—two gold, five silver and three bronze.

Graef, a lanky, 6-foot-6, 22-year-old from Verona, N.J., trimmed six-tenths of a second off the old world mark of 2:10.9 set by America's Tom Stock in 1962.

Dilley also was under the old mark with a time of 2:10.5, losing to Graef by fingernail in a photo finish. Bennett was caught in 2:13.1.

Moments earlier, Australia's tall, strapping Dawn Fraser won an unprecedented third gold medal in the women's 100-meter freestyle in Games record time of 59.5 seconds.

Sharon Stouder of Glendora, Calif., was second and became the only other woman in the world to break the minute barrier in the event. The 15-year-old girl was timed in 59.9.

Kathy Ellis of Indianapolis added a bronze medal to the growing U.S. collection with a time of 1:00.8.

The only other gold medal awarded on the third day of the Olympic Games went to Poland's Waledmar Baszanowski, who won the lightweight class in weight-lifting with a total hoist of 951.5 pounds, a world record.

The United States was blanked in this event, while Russia's Vladimer Kaplunov won the silver medal with the same weight. His second place gave Russia four medals—two gold, one silver and one bronze.

The American sweep of the backstroke and Miss Fraser's outstanding effort highlighted a day in which the United States put together a strong possibility of a sweep in springboard diving, advanced a maximum three swimmers in two separate events and lost another argument at the conference table.

Navy Lt. Frank Gorman of Queens Village, N.Y., led the divers after seven events with 105.99 points, followed in order by Larry Andreason of Los Alamitos, Calif., with 101.31 and Ken Sitzberger of River Forest, Ill., with 98.66. The finals will be held Wednesday.

Moving into the semis of the men's 200-meter breaststroke were Tom Tretheney of Pittsburgh, Chet Jastremski of Toledo, and Wayne Anderson of Santa Clara, Calif.

Germany's Igon Henninger led all qualifiers with Olympic record 2:30.1 time, the 10th world or Olympic record in as many swimming events so far in the Games.

Dr. Harold Henning, U.S. swimming team manager, formally requested a reconsideration of the final placings in the men's 100-meter freestyle finals and asked that Gary Ilman of San Jose, Calif., be advanced a tie for third and share the bronze medal.

But Dr. Max Ritter, president of the International Swimming Federation, rejected the request and stood by an electronic timing device that caught Germany's Hans-Joachin Klein in a few thousandths of a second faster than Ilman in the Monday finals.

Both Klein and Ilman were timed in 54.0 seconds in the event usually decided by tenths of seconds. They had the same time when taken to hundredths of a second, but Klein was ahead when carried to three places. The swimming judges voted 4-4 for a tie at the time, but the swimming federation decided against the tie.

The rejection of the U.S. request recalled the 1960 rhubarb over the same event in which Australia's John Devitt was declared the winner over the United States' Lance Larson, even though Larson had been timed one-tenth of a second faster. The chief judge eventually lowered Devitt's time to the same as Larson's and made him the winner over vigorous U.S. protests.

The U.S. basketball team, unbeaten in Olympic play since 1936, scored its third straight victory of the Tokyo Games, 60-45 over Peru, even though Coach Henry Iba said the pressure of the 41-game winning string was becoming "an awful load to carry."

Three American girls, Nina Harmer of Philadelphia, Ginny Duenkel of West Orange, N.J., and Cathy Ferguson of Berkeley, Calif., advanced to the finals of the women's 100-meter backstroke, each winning her heat. Miss Ferguson's time was the fastest, 1:08.8.

The men's 400-meter freestyle relay team also advanced on the strength of a Games record performance in the heats. The team of Steve Clark of Los Altos, Calif., Larry Schulhof of Muncie, Ind., Mike Austin of Rochester, N.Y., and Ilman had the fastest time of the qualifications, 3:38.8. Since the event is new to the Olympics, the time went into the books as a record.

Schulhof will be replaced in the final by Don Schollander of Lake Oswego, Ore., winner of the 100 meters Monday.

The United States also put its fourth rowing crew into the finals when the coxless fours pulled away from France's entry and won their repechage.

The crew is composed of Geoff Picard of Lafayette, Calif., Dick Lyon of Glendale, Calif., and Ted Mittett and Ted Nash, both of Seattle.

Two U.S. boxers, featherweight Charlie Brown of Cincinnati and light middleweight Toby Gibson of Spokane, scored victories and the U.S. men's volleyball team blanked the Netherlands 3-0. Dan Brand, wrestling middleweight, also won his third round match.

MRS. VIOLA LE PARD, Duluth, Minn., a car owner who tried a sample of Skelly's additive, Keotane, reports: "I got about 2 more miles per gallon. I continued using Keotane because mileage was increased, and the car ran smoother with it." (from Keotane Report #3)

LEAP FROG FAILS — Phil Linz, Yankee shortstop, went over the head of the Cards' Lou Brock after firing to first in an effort to complete a double play in the fifth inning of Monday's World Series game. In the photo at left, Linz leap frogged over Brock's back after taking a throw from second baseman Bobby Richardson for the out on Brock. He threw to first for the unsuccessful completion on Bill White, then landed on his hands (photo at right). The Cardinals won the game, 5-2, and took a 3-2 edge back to St. Louis for the sixth game Wednesday.

Cardinals Assume Favorites' Role As Gibson, McCarver Provide Lead

By JOE REICHLER

ST. LOUIS (AP) — For the first time since the start of hostilities, the St. Louis Cardinals found themselves World Series favorites over the New York Yankees today.

Odds-makers made the high-flying Redbirds a strong 2-1 choice following their 5-2 triumph Monday that gave them a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven Series.

Everything appears to be stacked in favor of the Cards. First, they will be back home for the sixth game Wednesday after taking two out of three in New York.

Second, their pitching, thanks to today's respite because of travel, is in tip-top shape with veteran Curt Simmons primed for his return engagement with young Jim Bouton of the Yankees.

Third, Cardinal Manager Johnny Keane thinks there is a strong possibility that Julian Javier, the convalescing second baseman, will be ready to make his first start.

Finally, the Cards have won all four full-length World Series in which they have participated. They defeated the Yankees in seven games in 1926, the Philadelphia Athletics in 1931, the Detroit Tigers in 1934 and the Boston Red Sox in 1946.

Should the Cardinals lose the sixth game, they will still have the home edge in the finale with ace Bob Gibson a strong possibility to make his third start in the Series. Whitey Ford, currently nursing a tender right heel, would be Gibson's probable opponent.

The closeness of the Series fails to tell by how wide a margin the Cardinals have outplayed the Yankees in the first five games. The Yankees hold a slight edge in over-all batting, but the Cards lead in everything else. They have outrun, outfielded, outpitched and outmaneuvered the Yankees.

Monday's game, won in 10 innings by the Cardinals on catcher Timmy McCarver's three-run homer, was a typical example. The Cardinals, except for shortstop Dick Groat's error in the ninth which paved the way for Tommy Tresh's game-tying homer, sparkled in the field.

In contrast, the Yankees' defensive play, as in the first four games, was sloppy and uncertain. New York was guilty of its sixth and seventh errors of the Series. An error by catcher Ellie Howard on an interference play helped the Cards fill the bases in the first inning, but young Mel Stottlemyre pitched his way out of the jam without any damage.

Stottlemyre was betrayed again in the fifth. This time he couldn't escape. After pitcher Bob Gibson had singled with one out, Curt Flood hit a double play ball directly at Bobby Richardson. The usually dependable second baseman bobbled the ball and all hands were safe. A single by Lou Brock and a force play, that would have been a double play were it not for shortstop Phil Linz' poor relay, resulted in a 2-0 Cardinal lead.

Gibson, beaten in the second game, had a shutout going into the ninth. But Groat bobbled Mickey Mantle's grounder and, after two out, one of which was Gibson's 12th strikeout, Tresh slammed his dramatic game-tying homer that sent the crowd of 65,633 into a frenzy.

Then came the stormy 10th in which the Yankees looked their worst. Pete Mikkelson, third Yankee pitcher, walked Bill White to open the inning. Ken Boyer, ordered to sacrifice, bunted to the right of the mound. Mikkelsen neglected to field the ball ahd it went for a single.

The sacrifice play was still on with Groat at bat, but Dick missed the bunt attempt and White was trapped off second. Howard fired to the bag but White turned and dashed toward third, sliding in safely when Pedro Gonzalez failed to hang on to Phil Linz' low throw.

Groat failed to bring White home, bouncing out into a force play, but McCarver settled the issue with a 3-2 clout into the right field stands.

"I'd have to say things look better now," said Keane in what could be the understatement of the Series. "We go back to our own park with a game lead."

McCarver, who had also hit a home run in the Cardinals' pennant clincher last Sunday, acknowledged this one "was the biggest one of my life although all I wanted was a little single or a fly ball to the outfield."

"The homer will have a good effect on Timmy," said Keane. "And it probably will have something to do with my future."

Keane obviously was referring to his relations with the club's front office. He had been offered a new contract the last week of the season after speculations that he would be fired. He begged off discussing next year's pact until after the Series.

Despite the defeat, Yankee Manager Yogi Berra remained unperturbed, at least outwardly. beat us.

We've never won two in a row before in a Series. We were worse off back in 1958. Milwaukee had us beat three games to just like that."

Fearsome Foursome

There was no doubt in the minds of over 44,00 who watched first hand the mauling Notre Dame administered the Air Force that a new era is underway for the Fighting Irish.

Or is that Ara?

Ara Parseghian was most noted for the fire brand offense he instilled at Northwestern on his most recent whistle stop on way to becoming the head coach at Notre Dame. But he has certainly impressed three opponents this season that he can also put together a defense that should rank second to none this year in collegiate football — especially when blessed with a fearsome foursome of middle monsters like those who challenged the Air Force last Saturday.

Grantland Rice penned the backfield of Harry Stuhldrehr, Jim Crowley, Elmer Layden and Don Miller into football immortality back in 1924 when he described the Notre Damers as the "Four Horsemen" — Death, Pestilence, etc. of mythology. Appropriately enough, the famous phrase came after the Irish had defeated Army on way to a 10-0 season and the national championship.

The modernday quartet of destruction are no less imposing. Outside the pros, there is probably no other unit that can raise such havoc as the likes of Alan Page, Tom Regner, Mike Wadsworth and Don Gmitter when they sic an enemy quarterback.

Against the Air Force line, these 240 pounders bulldozed their way with systemactic style. But when the rush also included such deathly tacklers as linebacker Jim Carroll and Ken Maglic (225 and 215) there was no escape.

That was the big difference in last Saturday's 34-7 conquest of the Academy — just as it had been in crushing Wisconsin 31-7 and Purdue 34-15. These four were capable of handling the entire offensive line, leaving no less than seven for pass coverage and pursuit. It's little wonder that AFA quarterback Tim Murphy was left searching for open receivers.

And that kind of pressure will eventually wear down any team, causing mistakes that will open up any game. It was the case last weekend, and it will be repeated several times before this season is finished.

ARA PARSEGHIAN
Starts New Era

The Era of Ara Parseghian could well start with an undefeated year.

Nick Liontas, who actually was spared the sight of his Falcons' bloodshed against Notre Dame, told the Quarterback Club members Monday that the pre-game plan called for at least as many passes as were thrown. In winning their first two, the Fightin' Irish had made no secret of their defensive strength down the middle.

"And you just might see about as many this week against Missouri," the scouting coach said. "Nobody's run through the center of the Missouri line, and I don't think we will either."

Liontas described Missouri as "a typical Dan Devine team

BETWEEN THE LINES

By LOY HOLMAN

that likes to run its entire side of the line around end. They call it student body right or left and that's just what it looks like.

"In Devine's own words he has the best set of backs he's had since coming to Missouri—but they just haven't jelled yet" Liontas said. "But it would be just our luck that they would put everything together this week for the first time."

After acting as an AFA spy in Missouri's last three games, the Academy assistant said the Tigers are far better than their record of two wins and as many losses indicates. They have had trouble getting everything going in winning over Utah 23-6 and Kansas State 7-0 and losing to California 21-14 and Oklahoma State 10-7, according to Liontas.

"But they have a guy that can do everything in quarterback Gary Lane and plenty of speed in their other big backs. Their main trouble has been running out of the interference.

"Johnny Roland is probably thier best back but he's been playing mostly on defense. After leading the Big Eight as a sophomore, Roland was put out to pasture a year ago for stealing tires or something like that," Liontas said, "but Devine has welcomed him back with open arms."

The Air Force scout said he would rate the game this Saturday as a toss - up but then pointed out that his Falcons would have to put together some kind of running threat to compliment Murphy's passing if they are expected to win this pivotal game of the season.

The Falcons have yet to score on a running play in four games — but they've met some of the best defensive teams in the land in Washington, Michigan, Colorado State U. and Notre Dame (the latter No. 1 in the nation in rushing defense). And Missouri is another in this category.

Frank Flood drew the short straw in having to report on another Colorado College loss following the 40-7 rout at Nebraska Wesleyan last Friday. But he told the Q - Backers CC may end the string at Homecoming this Saturday.

"We belong to both the NCAA and NAIA and we'll use which ever rules will help us to win," Flood said trying to keep a straight face. "We'll try most anything."

He also said that while in Nebraska over the weekend, people there were talking about how Coach Bob Devaney of the Cornhuskers can analyze action in the middle of a game and change tactics.

"Well, we (the CC staff) still haven't figured out what was wrong in our opener four weeks ago."

Eagles, T-Birds to Battle Saturday In Crucial South Central Contest

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

As they say in the World Series, nothing's ever decided until the final throw — but the South Central League should come up with at least a preliminary winner this weekend when Pueblo East and Wasson tangle in Pueblo Saturday night.

Of course, if events follow those of last week, the conference could find itself in a real scramble by late Saturday evening. Three contests over the past Friday and Saturday produced two ties and if the favored Eagles and Thunderbirds repeat, the SCL will be past mid point in one of its strangest races in history.

Other action Friday sends South against Centennial in the Steel City in a contest which will match the league's two swiftest backfields. Saturday, Palmer will attempt to emerge from its offensive difficulties in a home - field battle against Pueblo Central. In the only non league outing, skidding Trinidad will attempt to re - coup the SCL's scattered fortunes against Cheyenne Mountain, the first place team in the Will Rogers League.

Unlike the Cardinals and Yankees of the 1964 World Series, neither East or Wasson has displayed much success with the home run bomb. Both teams have suffered key injuries in the past two weeks which could affect the outcome. The Eagles, who have a number of players bruised, will likely be without star fullback, Jim Selek. And the Thunderbirds, who saw their offense suffer due to the absence of Bob Toof despite a 33-7 conquest of inept West Denver, have their fingers crossed that their ace fullback will be available for this Saturday's combat.

Last weekend's action, which had Wasson stepping out of the league and East pulling into a first place tie with the Thunderbirds in the meantime, was hardly a decisive one for the erratic SCL. Only Central, which lost its third straight game, appears to be out of the title chase, and the Wildcats cannot be regarded lightly by any upcoming opponents.

Otherwise, surprising South and Palmer battle to a scoreless tie in Pueblo Saturday night and Trinidad and Centennial were caught up in a 13 - 13 struggle the previous evening.

East, which had scarcely looked like the title favorite in a resounding loss to East Denver the previous week, returned to form against Central last Friday. The defensive - minded Eagles shoved across a second quarter touchdown when tailback Ed Griego sliced over from the two yard line.

East then all but put it away as quarterback Bill Lucero intercepted a Dave Struthers pass late in the third quarter at his own 34 and returned it to the Central 35. Three plays later Lucero fired a 22 yard scoring pass to sophomore Mike McCown and Mike Willis added the conversion.

Tackle Don Montoya struggled over the goal with a 39 yard return of a Struthers fumble in the fourth period to ice it but Central retaliated in the final 20 seconds on a 70 yard scoring pass from Struthers to end Jack Butler.

Centennial capped a 62 yard drive with a Jerry Guiterrez to Jim Brummett pass with 35 seconds left to force the tie with Trinidad. Charles Mastrim, who had kicked an earlier extra point, missed the one which could have produced the win.

Trinidad quarterback Mike Bosso went over from four yards out to give the Miners a 6-0 halftime lead but Brummett tied it with a 32 yard romp through the Trinidad defense early in the fourth period. Mastrini then added his go-ahead point, only to have the Miners march right back to tally on a three yard dive by Tony Maccagnan with 3:17 left. Griego added the point that eventually was to hold the tie.

Palmer lost the statistics battle but held the Colts in crucial situations in the Saturday night attraction in Pueblo. South kept it hot right up until the final play, however, when Verle Davison hit Ron Lawlis with a pass inside the Palmer five. Lawlis, stumbling on the catch, had his knee hit the ground at the one as time ran out.

Although the scoreboard did not reflect it, Wasson had some bad moments on defense until star Jim Smith took over in the final quarter against West Denver. Smith fled 51 yards around the Cowboy flanks for the clincher. Earlier he had raced 43 yards with a pass interception for a score and had a 61 yard touchdown run called back. Reserves finished up and added a last tally in the T - Birds convincing triumph.

Florence Alone in Standings

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Florence finally stands alone at the top of the Pikes Peak League standings but the four teams challenging the Huskies are just a hot breath behind.

Coach Ken Livingston's actors (he's a former melodrama performer turned grid director) posted an easy 21-0 win over Leadville last week as Fountain saw its four-game win streak snapped by Salida, 19-13, and Manitou Springs suffered a 12-0 loss to Crowley County. Previously-winless Fowler gained a 20-6 verdict over Buena Vista.

Manitou Springs gets the next good shot at the Huskies as Florence hosts the Mustangs in the headliner of a four - game slate Friday night. In other games Fountain hosts Leadville, Buena Vista travels to Crowley County and Salida is at Fowler.

Fountain, Manitou, Salida and Crowley County are the four teams panting for a shot at Florence's now-disputed throne. Each has a 2-1 league mark.

Salida already has fallen before the Huskies and Fountain doesn't play the leaders until the final game of the year. So Florence has only to top Manitou Friday and Crowley County the folowing week to hold its own against the rest of the league.

Dan Onery Wins Feature Race Over Favored Hound

G. A. Alderson's Dan Onery took the featured ninth race honors at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club Monday night over the favored Toughy Nolon and Pay Off Girl.

Pay Off Girl, making her 13th effort on the local oval came in for show money of $3.40 to make it her 11th finish in the money during the current meet. Toughy Nolon's place finish at $4 and $2.80 brought an up to date tally of 14 starts and 9 money finishes.

In tonight's feature, Sweet Face and Cleveland's Choice will be the favorites of many fans as they join company with Irish Caper, Ski Lady, Sebag, Texas Champ, Bingo Pug and Cheyenne's Rex in their orbit of the Peak Course of 1710 feet.

Wednesday night sees the running of the 1964 RMKC $2,500 Puppy Stake final. The field of eight, composed of greyhounds that have never raced officially on any other track and whelped after Jan. 1, 1963, is composed of a double entry by Frank Pierce Kennel, El Camino Duke and El Camino Dale. Belle Larsen and Tell You Cal are from the Alderson and Lentz Kennel and F. B. Stutz has a couple called Basic Black and Dark Champ. Mrs. Frank Hall has a single entry with Nixon's Red and Rural Shilo represents the Fred Whitehead kennel. Greyhounds earned their berths from semi-finals held on Saturday, Oct. 10.

Cheyenne Two Wins From Title

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Guy Barickman's Cheyenne Mountain football team, pre-season favorites to clinch the first Will Roger League championship, registered a chips-down league victory last weekend when the Indians stormed past the WRL top challenger Air Academy High.

Cheyenne's 22-7 triumph over the talented Kadets put the Indians two games closer to clinching the WRL title. With two games remaining, the Indians are solid favorites to sweep to the championship.

This Friday night the Cheyenne team is free from league competition as the Indians tangle with always-scrappy Trinidad of the South Central League. The Cheyenne-Trinidad fracas will be played at the Harrison Stadium because the Cheyenne football field has no lights. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

In other WRL action, the Kadets attempt to keep their dim hopes alive in the league race when the Academy High team entertains pesky Harrison to roundout Friday's slate.

Saturday's agenda calls for one encounter when Widefield's Galdiators, fresh from a decisive victory over Harrison last week, attempt to keep their undefeated mark intact against visiting Canon City. The Widefield-Canon City game is set for Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Widefield Stadium.

Cheyenne's 22-7 victory over Academy High was the highlight of last weekend's slate. The only other WRL game found Widefield successful in its league opener against Harrison, 33-7. Pueblo Catholic slipped past Canon City, 19-14, to present the Tigers with their fourth straight setback of the season.

In the Cheyenne-Academy High game, the Indians over-all speed proved too much for the Big Blue to handle. The Kadets managed to contain Cheyenne's ground gaining mainstay, fullback Greg Cramblit, but they couldn't stop quarterback Ted Garcia and halfbacks Doug Helliger and Rich McCurdy.

The Cheyenne team returns to WRL competition a week from Saturday, Oct. 24, when the Indians play host to the capable-but-sometimes-erratic Widefield footballers. The Indians close out their WRL slate against Canon City, Oct. 31. Should the Tribe manage to defeat both Widefield and Canon City, and they are heavy favorites to accomplish this feat, the Cheyenne squad will clinch the WRL championship.

A loss in either game would throw the league chase in dead lock.

Texas Holds Top Poll Spot

That blur that flew past the other teams in The Associated Press' college football poll this week was Illinois but the flight was a bumpy one and worse than that, it was in the wrong direction.

The Illini, ranked No. 2 in last week's AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters, took on fourth-ranked Ohio State last Saturday and came out on the short end of a 26-0 score.

The impressive victory moved the Buckeyes into the No. 2 slot and dropped Illinois right out of the Top Ten. But the Illini slide off the poll wasn't a lonely one. Kentucky and Michigan State, both thumped on Saturday, also dipped out of sight.

It's powered by America's only automotive overhead cam engine, the high torque Tornado OHC . . . offers optional extras such as automatic transmission, independent front suspension, power steering and power brakes. But the all new Wagoneer is really a 'Jeep' vehicle at heart.

The 'Jeep' Wagoneer goes up steep hills, over rough rugged terrain and through snow and mud that leave other cars helpless. And around slippery turns that cause fishtailing and skidding, it hugs the road with traditional 'Jeep' traction.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Continuity of Government

Political structures we call government, are organized for various reasons and under various sets of circumstances. So far as is known, every government ever established came into being through some kind of violence.

Before governments came to be relied upon, men were living in a different kind of relationship. Scholars describe this earlier relationship as nongeographic. Tribal or clan unity was maintained, either by blood relationships or by a set of religious taboos with a shaman or witch doctor providing the cohesive influence.

But as primitive men began, ever so slowly, to increase their production and consequently their wealth, it seemed logical to them to create an instrument of force for their own protection.

The event that might awaken this line of logic could be one of several:

1. Bandits might appear to rob the industrious. To prevent this action, or, belatedly, to regain what the bandits had already stolen, governments were organized.

2. Bandits might appear who not only robbed the industrious, but who, themselves, organized the government and set themselves up over the producers in an effort (a) to continue to live at their expense and (b) to prevent any other gang of banbits from intruding into their territory.

3. In anticipation that bandits might appear, governments were formed by the local inhabitants who took the power to prey modestly upon their own friends and neighbors, to prevent a major incursion by an outsider. We know of no historic incident in which a government was organized for economic reasons, of a productive nature. All governments, without exception, came into being as banditti or as a military force to oppose the possibility of alien bandits from appearing.

Because of the variations shown, the organizing of a government has taken various forms. It has come into existence by means of skillful propaganda efforts, i.e., "You are in danger. Help us form a government to protect you."

It has come into existence as a punitive device to pursue and capture a raiding party which has already pillaged and plundered.

It has come into existence through bribery and corruption.

It has been remarked that whatever the character of the method employed which has given form to government, it is likely that this same method must be continually re-employed for the government to continue.

Thus, if government comes into existence through bribery, bribery must be practiced thereafter, or the government will fall.

If the government comes into existence through propaganda efforts, then the propaganda efforts will have to be continued or the government will fall.

In many if not most cases, more than one device is used — in which case, more than one device must be used to continue the government formed.

We may take this observation and apply it to the American government.

The American Constitution was drafted in the aftermath of war. However, it came into being largely through the efforts of skillful propagandists and political manipulation. It should be borne in mind that the government was not formed for military reasons, either aggressive, or punitive.

However, it was conceived as a protective device, the necessity for which, though stoutly challenged by many of America's foremost thinkers, was made into a cause by brilliant speakers and writers, among them Jay, Madison and Hamilton.

The character of the American government was thus formed on the exchange of ideas, the issuance of propaganda, the creation of public issues and the employment of political manipulation. The government will doubtless continue to exist so long as these devices are employed.

America is not a war-like nation, although it has tended to drift in the direction of great reliance upon force of arms. This was not characteristic at its founding. It is entirely possible that increasing reliance upon military force may weaken the structure.

The Immigration Problem

Frank Welsh is with us again, hoping to inform ye editor. He says in today's letter to the Open Parliament section that he hopes our efforts can finally be harnessed to combat the evils of the day.

The fundamental difference between Mr. Welsh and ye editor relates to what each one considers to be the evils of the day. Mr. Welsh's view appears to us to be as follows: He wishes to sacrifice human freedom in an effort to make the world safe for himself and others who share his views. Ye editor will not favor the sacrifice of freedom nor of any human being for any reason whatever.

If ye editor is to harness his energies to combat evil, we might properly begin by combatting the evil in Mr. Welsh's thinking.

Let's take his idea that the proposed immigration law provides for an "alien right." If we examine the nature of human rights, we will discover that the concept of right itself is one which states clearly that all men, regardless of national origin, creed or color, have exactly the same rights. Further, that a right cannot be provided by law. We are, if we believe in the Declaration of Independence, endowed by certain unalienable rights. And among these are life, liberty (freedom) and the pursuit of happiness. We wonder if Mr. Welsh believes in this. If he does, he cannot favor the restriction of the rights of any human being regardless of race, or national origin.

Now it happens that we are quite familiar with immigration ideas. We are even familiar with the fact that Mr. Welsh's forebears were immigrants. They came to this country, as ours came, because we were free to move to a place where we hoped to continue to be free. Now Mr. Welsh proposes to reduce freedom; or more properly, to continue to support a reduction in freedom. He wants freedom for himself but is quite willing to restrict the freedom of others.

Now, no one has to support the concept of freedom. Obviously, Mr. Welsh does not value freedom very highly.

First he wants us to exert whatever power we have to force others to our view. This is expressed by his hope that ye editor will finally vote. That means that ye editor must join in with one gang or another in an effort to obtain a majority support of his opinions so they can be forced on the minority. Next, he wants us to do what we can to restrict the freedom of persons who wish to come to this country.

Next he suggests that we (and you) get something "free" from the Dodge House. We might send a dime.

But who printed and published the booklet he recommends? Is it a government pamphlet, as we suspect? In that case he wishes us to support the seizure of the funds of others so that government printing and publishing can be used.

And he calls upon us to fight the evils of our day.

Very well, we'll fight them. We call upon Mr. Welsh to stop trying to impose his will on others. Let them alone. If a man wants to come to this country and is willing to come at his own cost, here to become a constructive, hard-working citizen, why should we oppose him? Because he is black? Or because he is Asian? Or because he missed the sailing of the Mayflower?

Now, we will oppose his coming here at government expense. And we will oppose any subsidy for him after he gets here. So far as we are concerned, there is room for him if he will support himself. If he does that, he is not a drain on our economy, but an economic asset.

The problem is not immigration but subsidy. The problem is not one of race or color, but of willingness to work.

Mr. Welsh comments that October 23 is both United States Day and his own birthday. We congratulate him for his attainment. And we suggest that he examine the letterhead of the United States Day Commitee. He will thus discover that ye editor is a member of the Board of Advisers of this organization.

But we hasten to advise him that we are discontinuing our relationship with this organization because, when we advised it to discontinue its attacks on persons because of their race or color, we were told that this is what it was going to do. We want no part of any organization that is geared to racial or national prejudice.

The United States Day celebration is a fine thing. It opposes the United Nations which rightfully must be opposed. But it should be opposed for the right reasons and these reasons relate to the expansion of government and the loss of freedom.

We promise Mr. Welsh to continue to labor in combat of the enemies of our day. And the enemies are not particular persons, but they are particular ideas, such as those Mr. Welsh seems to favor.

We do not propose to compromise freedom and the ideals of freedom, even for so charming an exponent of restrictions, regulations and tax spending as Mr. Welsh.

IMMIGRATION

To the Editor:

LBJ's position on the immigration laws of the land is clearly stated in his State of the Union message delivered to Congress on January 8, 1964. He stated, "We must also lift by legislation the bars of discrimination against those who seek entry into our country, particularly those with much needed skills and those joining their families."

Senator Hart of Michigan introduced the Hart Bill, S. 747 in the Senate. A similar bill called the Kennedy-Johnson Bill was introduced in the House by Mr. Cellar, H. R. 7700, introduced by request of the late President and supported by President Johnson. It would increase immigration and under it immigrants would be admitted on a first come, first-served basis. Both measures make immigration an alien right instead of a privilege. Both are supported not only by the administration but by various minority groups which are unassimilated, vote in blocs in the big urban centers, and hope to make America over in their image. This change in the ethnic face of America would, of course, bring drastic changes in its culture and institutions and a crushing economic and social burden to our taxpayers. This is the price some politicians are ready to pay for votes. One senator called it "civil rights legislation for the world." It is supported by the entire left-wing movement — professional immigration promoters, by the communist party and well-meaning do-gooders, liberals, ethnic minorities and others who believe that the present immigration law, the McCarran-Walter Act, as amended, makes second - class citizens out of some people, and hurts our foreign policy in Asia and Africa.

This is a large bill, and cannot be covered by a short article. Suffice it to say that they expect the 306,000 immigrants in 1963 would increase to a million a year, the first year after it is passed. From then on, the increase will depend on how many foreigners can get released from bondage in the foreign countries. The countries over there will probably be glad to allow the ne'er-do-wells, the paupers and criminals to depart from their shores, but will hold on to the skilled and educated.

We don't need this bill, in fact we need to draw the line ever closer toward refusing admission to undesirable people. We have an enormous increase in population from our own natural annual birth rate, and must count on taking care of our own. With our present population nearing 200,000,000, it is an awful problem to face, without taking on the excess population of the whole wide world.

I wish a lot of people would write to The American Committee on Immigration Policies and ask for the booklet, "Our Immigration System." The address is The Dodge House, 20 E. St., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20001. I think the 26-page booklet is free, but better send a dime for postage. It will tell more about this subject than anybody knows. I wish the editor would get and read it so he can combat the subject well. When I get him to voting and actively ensorsing the best man for president and get him on the right side of this great immigration and other great problems that confront our nation, it will be a great day for me. I would love to hear his wonderful command of language used to combat the evils of our day. He has more time probably than I have.

You know what day October 23 is? It is UNITED STATES Day, and we will celebrate, I hope. Incidently, it is my birthday, 83 years old, since October 23, 1881. Last night I read the obituaries in the National Observer, six of them, only one was 85 years old; the other five averaged ten years younger than I am. That is food for thought. All of us who have never had an MD or any other letters back of our names, can write LTD, just as many big companies do. Limited is the word. In every way we are limited — brains, muscles, money, but not limited in dreams and aspirations and ideals. I vote to improve our country, do you?

CHENOWETH

To the Editor:

Your paper gives a lot of space to the presidential election these days but not much space to the congressional race, which is just as important for the voters.

I would like to know more about Frank Evans and Edgar Chenoweth. I know Chenoweth is a Goldwater supporter but I read in the paper today that he said he doesn't keep up with national issues. I would like to know where he stands on national issues. Can you find out?

FLORA WILSON

Editor's note: To find out where Mr. Chenoweth stands on national issues, Mr. Chenoweth will have to be interrogated. This newspaper has no record of the statement attributed to Mr. Chenoweth that he doesn't keep up with these issues. The Gazette Telegraph will continue to cover the election and the issues being debated prior to it.

Mr. Chenoweth has had considerable to say about some of the national issues. In recent days in the Gazette Telegraph he has commented on: 1. The Supreme Court; 2. reapportionment of state assemblies; 3. the ban on school prayers, 4. Civil Rights; 5. the Trade Expansion Act; 6. national defense; 7. Viet Nam; 8. The Air Force Academy; 9. Fort Carson; 10. NORAD.

BOARDMAN FAN

To the Editor:

This is to express my appreciation for all the articles your newspaper has printed by Dr. George Boardman.

His column presents a stimulating and refreshing approach to freedom. His writings are both interesting and educational. The ideas he presents regarding freedom and truth offer excellent direction for any one interested in exploration of self-control. Dr. Boardman's personal ability in the expression of the philosophy of freedom is unequaled by any other columnist.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGE

To the Editor:

We speak of the U.S. government having become too big, not alone in a physical and fiscal sense; rather, too big in the sense it has expanded beyond what Americans always believed were the political limits into the fields of economics, culture, education, housing, and now the spiritual and medical fields.

The gradual enroachment has accelerated with the government constantly giving specially created privileges for special groups, until today government's major function has become one of supervising the vast networks of special privilege-dispensing agencies it has created and administering the huge bureaucracies needed to control our once free society.

Our American republic was established for the protection of all individual Americans in the free and individual exercise of the rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness endowed to each by his Creator. Each time government overstepped its limited powers, it was to serve the special interests of special groups. Each special-privilege government gave to some it took from others; but, because it was handled through the impersonal channels of government, those who got were aware and those who lost were not aware. The further this trend continues, the further we get from Americanism, the faster the process becomes and what it is leading to need be no mystery. Let those who will not apply the labels of "totalitarian" and "socialism" invent their own labels and so escape having to face the facts themselves. But the consequences none of us will escape regardless of how we are fooled by labels.

The Local Scene

Borrowing Trouble

By RUFUS L. PORTER

Adam Lyre claims he came across a deserted town "somewhere in Colorado" that was different from the usual weather - beaten, tumbledown run of mining camp ghost towns.

"This town," said Adam, "was as modern and as well planned a little city as any I ever saw. Practically every building in it was either brand new, or had lately undergone a face lifting. The streets were well paved, the water works was ample and a new sewage disposal system was in evidence. The place couldn't have been abandoned for longer than 30 days when I stumbled onto it.

"Naturally, I was as intrigued by this empty, elegant and livable village standing deserted as many sailors have been at finding a sound ship drifting idly on the sea and could find no sign of the officers and crew nor any reason for the ship's desertion. Many of these sea mysteries have never been solved, much to the annoyance of humanity. But I wasn't about to give up on this plush and modern ghost town until I had solved the riddle of why the population had walked off and left it."

"And I suppose you solved it," I said. "And what was the name of the town?"

"I did," said Adam, "and the town's name, according to the sign on the railroad depot (the tracks are the only thing that has been removed), the town's name was Squanderburg."

"A likely name," I said, "for as fine a little place as you describe. I'm beginning to think you made the whole thing up."

"Word of honor," he said. "But I later learned from my research that the town's original name had been painted over and the new word substituted as the more likely name. The real name had been Hill Haven, and the neat little rows of homes and business buildings, some of them really splendid, situated in a lush valley with a friendly climate certainly had the appearance of a haven."

Here Adam paused to light a stogie and pour another cup of coffee.

"I suppose," I supposed, "that your research was long and arduous and that you followed clues from one end of the state to the other and was about to give up when you ran into a little old woman in a remote hide-away that knew all the answers." (That's the way his tales usually run.)

But this time he fooled me.

"Nothing like that," he said. "All I really did was drive out of town on the excellent paved highway, paved to the city limits, that is, and over about 30 miles of poorly kept dirt road to the next town. The town, located in a bleak and barren spot with a most unsalubrious climate and consisting mostly of older, but still substantial buildings, though many of them needed paint, was the most hustling, bustling, and energetic place I have ever come across.

"The people appeared to be healthy and happy and, withal, prosperous. I walked into a huge emporium bustling with activity and asked for the manager. I was led back to his office and, after the usual amenities, he asked the purpose of my visit.

" 'Tell me,' I said, 'if you can, what happened to the town called Squanderburg about 30 miles west of here. It's such a beautiful town in such a lovely setting, I have been wracking my brains trying to figure out why it stands deserted.'

" 'That bothers a lot of people,' he said, 'though fewer of them now than at first. Few of them go that way any more. The town's name used to be Hill Haven, and an apt name it was, too. It had more resources, more water, more everything than any other town in the region. And it was more prosperous, too, until the blight set in.'

" 'What sort of blight?' I asked. I had first thought of an epidemic as the reason for the town's emptiness.

" 'A blight we call federalitis here,' he answered. 'You see, when the boys from Washington started shoveling out loans for this and that; for street paving; for sewage disposal units; new schools; for new homes; for swimming pools; for "small" business men and for everything else under the sun, the citizens of Hill Haven fell for it hook, line and sinker.

" 'They listened to the siren song of the politicians and the bureaucrats and every time any of them wanted anything, for themselves or for the community, they just asked their good old Uncle to provide it. Trouble was that they were all building shiny new homes and swimming pools and boat houses on FHA and VA loans and at the same time the town was paving streets, building sewage disposers, a park, a library, new schools and the Lord knows what else on federal loans, also.

" 'Came the time when they had to start paying their good old Uncle on all these personal and public loans. By that time they were so far in the red that the city had to keep boosting taxes to keep up the payments. But it was still asking for loans and getting in deeper all the time. So were the people.

" 'It wasn't long before they realized that Uncle expected prompt payment on both the interest AND principle and that he could get very mean about it.

" 'The upshot of it was that Uncle started foreclosing on homes and people started moving out. This caused the taxes to be boosted still higher, which caused the foreclosures to become more numerous and, well, you can see how it went. Finally, they just all pulled out and left the wholy pretty mess to Uncle Sam.'

" 'But I see your little town is prospering,' I said.

" 'Certainly,' he said. 'We didn't let the bureaucrats invade us and we don't owe the government a red cent. Our progress may be slower, but it's real. Another thing, all our utilities, including the sewage disposal plant, are privately owned and our citizens are paving the streets a block at a time, as they can afford it. But we are getting tired of the government going around creating "Squanderburgs" on our tax money.'

"Well, that's the story," said Adam. "That little deserted town would make somebody a fine real estate development, if the government didn't have it tied up in red tape."

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION No. 596: "What is the answer to the person who simply says, 'I do not agree with you,' or 'I agree with you on questions of ethics and economics'?"

ANSWER: If he doesn't give any reason why he doesn't agree with you, it might be well to point out to him that he is simply using himself as a standard of right. Whatever he thinks is right is right, ipso facto, or whatever he thinks is is wrong is wrong because he thinks so. A man must have a standard of ethics in order to determine whether a thing is good or bad or right or wrong.

The man who cannot give a standard and only says, "I agree, or I disagree" is implying by that statement that he needs no standard of right or wrong, that he simply knows it all and has reached the final solution of all questions.

Simply point out that he must have a standard of right and wrong. A mathematical, universal standard that applies equally to all people or he is the law unto himself.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

These Days

The Great Break-Through in Psychiatry

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The greatest medical break-through of the age — indeed, in the whole history of the world — has apparently occurred. If we can believe what we are now being told, people can get a competent appraisal of their nervous condition and the state of their mental health merely by making a telephone call to a psychiatrist or writing him a letter with a return envelope and a five - cent stamp.

Just think of it! In the old days you had to find a doctor who had undergone a long novitiate in fishing for the last detail about what happened in your childhood. He could be Jungian, Freudian or Adlerian. If he were a Freudian, for example, he would have had to undergo a long psychoanalysis himself. This sort of thing took hundreds of hours on a couch, and when the educated medico, in his own good turn, came to apply the techniques to his patients, he naturally had to charge a whopping fee. His sort of deep therapeutic knowledge was a rarity and deserved rare compensation.

STUDY AND WORK

If you wanted something less than a Freudian diagnosis in the old days of medicine, you might have gone to a psychiatrist. He would know all about intelligence testing and how to interpret a Rorschach. He would also have had a thorough grounding in the interpretation of psychosomatic phenomena. It would naturally have taken him some time to puzzle out the the meaning of your symptoms. Neuroses in the old days did not yield up their secrets without long and patient detective work, and even the mere suspicion of a neurosis required some study. Thus, if you were a person who wanted to be president of the United States, it could possibly have been a delusion of grandeur. But maybe not. In any case, in the old days no psychiatrist would pronounce on this without really sitting down with you a bit. And the fee would have been commensurate with your importance in the community.

But, as we say, this was long ago, when it took work to make a psychiatric study. It is now no longer so. Since the big recent break-through in medicine there are evidently lots of psychiatrists in the United States who have acquired the uncanny ability to diagnose your symptoms even though they may have never met you. All that is required is some public record of your activities. Maybe it was printed in the newspaper that you had felt a little frazzled back in the nineteen thirties because you had missed a lot of sleep trying to get your new retail store running right. Maybe you had made a flip remark about a tough guy down in the Caribbean who had been making faces at the United States. Since the big break-through in medicine all you apparently have to do is to clip a couple of headlines and mail them to a psychiatrist. For the cost of the postage he will tell you by return mail just how competent you are to hold a post of responsibility.

UNSEEN PATIENT

Not everybody, of course, is aware of the great break-through in medicine. But there is a nice man named Ralph Ginzburg who publishes a magazine called "Fact," a successor publication to something called "Eros." Ginzburg knows lots of psychiatrists who are willing to give you their opinions about your condition if you will only call them up on the telephone. I happen to know about Mr. Ginzburg because I have been reading the ads he has been placing in a big metropolitan newspaper.

The story that Mr. Ginzburg can testify to about his feat in playing midwife to the great break - through in medicine should inspire all of us. He has proved the case for the new day in medicine by asking his stable of psychiatrists to pronounce on a patient they had never seen. Name of the patient happens to be Barry Goldwater. More than a thousand psychiatrists came through magnificently, and it didn't cost Barry Goldwater a nickel to learn that he is an unstable character, unfit to be president of the United States. Just think of all the time in the old days that Barry would have to spend on a couch!

Wit and Whimsy

A little boy is walking down the street crying bitterly, so a man walks up to him and says, "What's the trouble, son — anything wrong?"

Among sobs the little boy replies:

"My mother lost her psychology book and she's using her own judgment now."

Looking At Hollywood

By HEDDA HOPPER

© 1964: By the Chicago Tribune

HOLLYWOOD, — A school teacher, Mrs. Hettie Dyhrenfurth, waging a fight for better films for children, comes up with a solution to combat produces who don't care what happens to youth as long as they make a buck. She writes: " 'Recommended for adults' is only a come - on for kids. There must be an ordiance that school-age children are only admitted to adult films when accompanied by their parents. Only then will we get better pictures.". . .Bob Hope's Christmas show takes him to Viet Nam with Jill St. John, Anna Maria Alberghett, Janis Paige (her third trip), John Bubbles (his second), Anita Bryant (her fifth), and Jerry Colonna, who's been with Hope ever since March, 1941, at March field. He goes with the lease. Bob expects to meet his wife Dolores and her mother in Sydney, Australia, then go on to Melbourne for the Melbourne Cup in early November. He sleeps as well on a plane as he does in bed.

Circle Nov. 17 on your calendar. That's the date NBC will show the Louvre in color. First time a TV camera was permitted inside the famous museum. Casey Shawhan, head of NBC public relations, waxed poetic over it; says it's the best thing he's ever seen. Charles Boyer narrates in English and French. There are many little sidelights about the place that houses more than 300,000 works of art. Did you know that Napoleon stole the Mona Lisa and kept it in his bedroom four years? Lucy Jarvis is the whirling dervish who wangled her way inside and produced it. We should have more like her.

ZSA ZSA GABOR made up with her husband, Herbert Hutner, but she's not speaking to sister Eva ("We fight all our lives but we love each other.") Zsa did a TV show in Baden-Baden, Germany. She walked on stage in a Dior with a diamond necklace, then got a look at the jewel - bedecked audience and forgot her lines. "I felt like somebody's poor relation," she says. "I've never seen so many rich people. The jewelry stores there have better diamonds than you'll find on Fifth avenue." Next up for Zsa Zsa: A sophisticated travelog series on TV which will have her going round the world, taking her audience into dress shops beauty salons, all the places girls like to go.

BILL FRYE found his film location for "Mother Superior" — a 70 - room house built in 1890 outside Philadelphia which is now a Catholic school for orphans. He was at the gathering of the 1,000 mothers superior of the Sisters of Mercy order in Pennsylavania when Sybil Connolly showed them the new habit she designed and her entire collection, including a wedding gown. Sybil never got more applause.

Violence Is Not Right in Strife, Dr. King Warns

By JERRY CURRY

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has denounced violence in the civil rights movement, saying it is both impractical and immoral.

Dr. King, a Negro, made an unscheduled appearance Monday before the House of Delegates of the 61st general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

"If the Negro uses violence, the future will be endless panorama of chaos," he said.

But a white sociologist said there may be a reason for the violence.

"The poverty revolution is upon us and is crying out for intelligent direction," said Dr. Charles V. Willie, associate professor of sociology and anthropology at Syracuse University. He spoke to the meeting of the Women of the Episcopal Church.

Willie said that to ignore the background of poverty which he said resulted in race riots in Northern cities "is putting one's head into the sand."

The two speeches came at different meetings during the convention at which the church is expected to take stands one way or the other on Episcopal involvement in civil rights.

The diocese of Louisiana at its convention voted to present a resolution to the general convention which states: "This body—the diocese of Louisiana—believes that, in working for those paramount human rights to which all men are entitled under God, property rights must also receive due consideration."

Resolutions from the dioceses of South Carolina, Mississippi and Alabama also would provide for less active involvement by the Episcopal Church in the civil rights movements.

Nest of Poisonous Snakes Uncovered

RADFORD, Va. (AP)—Demolition workers backed off when they uncovered a nest of about 20 poisonous copperhead snakes in a building they were tearing down Monday. The fire department came to the rescue and burned the building down.

'Perry Mason' May Play His Last Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
A PTelevision-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Raymond Burr, the eminent television barrister who in seven years has never failed to win a case, came to town the other day long enough to be master of ceremonies at a dinner for Medal of Honor winners. He confirmed reports that he, too, believes he is playing his last season as "Perry Mason."

Without a trace of regret, Burr said, "I think this year will wind it up. And, as you know, there are a number of other projects I've been interested in for some time."

There are, of course, Burr's flourishing art galleries and his interest in legal aid organizations, stimulated by his part in the courtroom series.

"And I've been talking with Don Fedderson (a TV producer) about a new series," Burr said. "It's working title is 'The Power,' and I'll play the governor of a state."

In addition to numerous "Perry Mason" fans who have faithfully followed the CBS show, there will be many veteran actors and actresses who will miss the show.

Gail Patrick Jackson, executive producer of the series and one of its owners, is a former motion picture star who has great loyalty to old friends.

She has always made a special point of hiring, whenever possible, some of the people she calls "old timers — people who were acting when I was." Some of them are semiretired and, often, well-to-do, but the acting urge remains strong.

Often such familiar motion picture faces as Conrad Nagel, Neil Hamilton, Arlene Judge, Stuart Erwin and Mae Clarke pop up in character parts.

This season the name of Ray Collins, who through the years has been playing Lt. Tragg, Perry's police antagonist, has been kept in the star billing, along with Burr, William Hopper and Barbara Hale. Collins, in all probability, will not appear in a single episode this season. He has been plagued by poor health for the last couple of years, and most often the policeman's role these days is played by Wesley Lau.

McNamara Will Continue if Johnson Wins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert S. McNamara, who already has served longer than any previous defense secretary except one, is expected to continue in office if President Johnson is elected.

No cabinet officer appears to stand higher at the White House than the 48-year old ex-president of the Ford Motor Company.

Without commenting on McNamara's future, Pentagon spokesman Arthur Sylvester today described as "bunk" a published report that the defense secretary was annoyed at allegedly being cut out of Viet Nam policy-making and would quit the cabinet after the election.

Republican nominee Barry M. Goldwater has said if he were president he would fire McNamara, with whom he has had a running fight over defense policy during the campaign.

That would be unnecessary, not only because it is customary for cabinet members to depart with a change of administration but because McNamara is known to reciprocate Goldwater's feelings.

A one-time contributor to Republican causes, McNamara has been a stalwart defender of the Kennedy-Johnson administration and has missed few opportunities 'o answer Goldwater's attacks in the military field.

Last week after Goldwater told the annual conference of United Press International editors that the Pentagon was planning to cut out 90 per cent of U. S. nuclear delivery capability, McNamara called a news conference to reply.

He said the Goldwater contention was "so completely misleading ,so politically irresponleading, so politically irresponnational security that it cannot be allowed to stand on the record."

YANKS DRIVING MORE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Bureau of Public Roads says that Americans are driving more this year. It also says they are paying more for the privilege.

The bureau estimated that motorists will pay more than $6.5 billion in highway use taxes for 1964 — 6 per cent above last year's figure.

Top Security Steps Are Taken for LBJ

NEW YORK (AP) — Security measures for President Johnson's visit to the city Wednesday and Thursday are so tight that uniformed policemen assigned to protect the President under orders not to turn for a moment to salute the President as his motorcades pass.

Several thousand uniformed men and detectives are assigned to protect the President under orders issued by Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy.

Johnson will address the Alfred E. Smith Memorial Foundation dinner Wednesday night and a political rally at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have a suggestion for college coeds who are concerned about the interior condition of their sneakers . . .

When one attacks the cause of a problem, one can usually manage to eliminate it. But since we cannot do without our feet, I have a better suggestion . . .

Both the dirt and odor are caused by perspiration. Something absorbent should be worn to collect this perspiration. Golf socks are great. They are short and don't show above the sn Many girls now wear these because they want the bare-legged look without wearing stockings. Powdering the inside of the shoe with talcum is also a good idea.

But the sneakers that are beyond-hope-at-present should either be discarded (heaven forbid!) or disinfected. The latter can be done by making a soapy solution of soap powder and ammonia.

Pour a sufficient amount into each shoe, with some water, and let stand an hour or more.

Rinse well, then let dry thoroughly.

After this, do as mentioned above . . . —A Fellow Student

Girls, ammonia is great for this but I don't know how many of you are allergic to it. I hope none.

However, this idea is excellent. Be sure to fill the shoe with water "first," then pour it out and refill with the above solution.

I also suggest you take an old toothbrush and scrub the inside of the shoe while it is partially filled with this solution. Be sure to rinse well.

Do "not" use bleach in the water with this method! Never mix bleach with ammonia. "Quite dangerous" . . . —Heloise

Dear HELOISE:

For my 30th birthday, I made a cherry pie for myself.

Using a toothpick, I pinpricked the lettering "Happy Birthday" on the crust before baking.

The juice from the cherries made the lettering bright red—and very effective! Try it.

I had no leftovers. But one day is enough to remind one of the quickly passing years! —Valeda Savard

Dear Heloise:

When I visited a doctor's office recently, I noticed an idea that could work in any home. He used towel racks to keep the furniture from bumping the walls and woodwork.

Towel racks with rubber suction cups would be ideal, and movable, in case you wanted to change your furniture arrangement.

This idea would be especially useful in homes like mine with rough plaster walls.

No more worn spots! —Mrs. Ronald Hansen

Dear Heloise:

My 14-month-old son used to give me a bad time when I had to give him aspirin.

But I have found a solution I would like to share with other mothers . . .

Since my son loves marshmallows, I now put one baby aspirin inside a miniature marshmallow, put three or four marshmallows in my hand, and he eats them all, including the one with the aspirin . . . —Mrs. Claire Saffian

Dear Heloise:

I place my dishwashing sink when I drain the water after washing dishes. This keeps any precious silver, etc., from slipping down the garbage disposal (my stopper is the now-popular solid disc type), but the sponge still lets the water run out.

I also put the sponge over sponge over the drain in my sink when I drain the water after washing dishes. This keeps posal and it keeps the potato peelings and such from flying out! —Addie Barry

Gals . . . it works beautifully —Thanks Addie —Heloise

Football Fan, Wife, Tangled Up in Ivy

By WARD CANNEL

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (NEA) — Golden autumn painted the Wesleyan University campus like a metaphor from English Composition (3-4). A small dog chased a big dog across the football field. And homewhere a traditional New England steeple clock intoned an ancient note signifying that the time was exactly 1:07.

The stands were starting to fill up with those downy-cheeked college men and their pale young ladies one reads about so frequently in the surveys.

"You'll have to tell me again," the wife said. "Who are they playing?"

"Bowdoin College," we said.

"Touch or tackle?" she asked, watching the two dogs race across the goal line and up a hill toward the observatory.

"Don't be that way," we said. "A bargain is a bargain."

"Well honestly," she said. "It's not even a regulation-size football field."

"Certainly it is," we said. "And the purest kind of college football. Two fine, small New England schools. Ivy. Scholarship. Leadership . . ."

"Oh dear," she wailed. "I've forgotten the name of the other school."

"Wesleyan," we said.

"No, the other one," she said. "The one I'm supposed to root for."

"Bowdoin," we said. "But you're not supposed to root for anybody until after the half. That's the whole idea of coming here — not to make up your mind until you see for yourself which side deserves your cheering."

"I think," she said a little louder than we thought was necessary," this is the most absolutely idiotic idea you have ever come up with."

"A bargain is a bargain," we said, putting an end to the discussion and standing up for the kickoff.

We will admit that it is somewhat trying to watch a football game without taking sides. The jumping and thumping look a little peculiar when your allegiance is not engaged.

But in that regard, it has been a particularly hard season on the allegiance. You simply cannot continue to root against the New York Yankees without showing the strain. Especially in an election year. And with Mrs. Rockefeller vs. Dr. Murphy. And Walter Cronkite vs. Huntley and Brinkley.

It has been almost more than an ardent fan can withstand. And you end up without enough energy to take sides on General de Gaulle, the Warren Commission Report or the other national games.

The only solution, as we see it, is the use of right reason rather than passion. Consequently, at half time with the score Bowdoin-7, Wesleyan-0, we told the wife:

"All right. Now choose your team. But you have to have three good reasons."

"Why?" we snapped back.

"Because they're a better team," she said. "Because they are going to win. And because I know you're rooting for the other team and this is the most idotic idea you have ever come up with."

Americanisms Watched in British Race

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA)—In a painful development for Empire-firsters, techniques and terminology of American politics are getting all mixed into the British general election.

Labor party leader Harold Wilson is in trouble with some of his countrymen because they think he's trying to get elected on Oct. 15 by using some of the same tactics employed by John F. Kennedy in 1960.

And some British Conservative party people are not only bewildered but unhappy by the use of such terms as "conservative" to describe GOP candidate Barry Goldwater and his policies.

This is the first time in 40 years that a British general election campaign has coincided with a U.S. presidential campaign. And in those years the revolution in communications media has brought the two nations much closer.

The controversy over Wilson has been sparked chiefly by his challenge to Conservative Prime Minister Alec Dougals—Home to meet him in face-to-face television debate. This, declares a London Evening Standard editoral, is "wholly alien to the British political system. The prime minister and the leader of the opposition are not isolated individuals seeking the lonely summit of presidential power . . . but representatives of the constituency which elected them."

As the politicking grows more intense there have been dark hints that Wilson would like to replace the office of prime minister by that of an executive type president. He might also introduce such innovations as the American-style press conference.

There is little doubt that Wilson has studied the late President Kennedy's campaign. He even seems to have adapted some of those 1960 Democratic slogans. "America," said Kennedy, "must get moving again." "Britain" says Wilson, "must get moving again." Kennedy: "This is a great country, but it must be greater." Wilson: "We in the Labor party think Britain can do better."

As to Goldwater's capture of the "conservative" label, the resentment is chiefly that an outsider has muscled in on a word for which the British feel they have a patent. Certainly the Arizona senator is not their idea of a Conservative with a capital "C".

British cartoonists, for example, usually show Goldwater wearing a 10-gallon hat, chaps and pearl-handled revolvers at both hips. No Conservative member of parliament would be caught dead in such an outfit. He would feel naked in anything but pin-striped trousers and a bowler hat.

And as for this "extremist" label (which Goldwater's opponents have tried to paste on him) no one could accuse the typical British conservative of being extreme. His hero is Queen Victoria's pin-up boy, Disraeli, and his party slogan "So don't Rock the Boat."

British Conservatism may seem straight-forward to the natives, but foreigners may find it confusing. "It is traditionally the right-wing party in parliament," according to the "Penguish Dictionary of Politics," which states in the next breath that it "has accepted the principles of the welfare state."

Liz and Debbie Don't Talk About Eddie

LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and Debbie Reynolds — former wives of Eddie Fisher — sailed the Atlantic together and said they never mentioned the name of their former spouse.

"It just didn't come up," said Debbie today. "If you don't forget what's in the past, how can you look forward to the future?"

After the death of Miss Taylor's third husband, Michael Todd, Fisher left Debbie and became Liz's fourth husband. Debbie married American shoe magnate Harry Karl.

After Liz divorced Eddie, she married British actor Richard Burton.

Last week the Burtons and the Karls sailed to Europe on the Queen Mary.

"I sent a note to the Burtons inviting them to join us for cocktails," said Debbie. "And do you know what? The Burtons had the very same idea. The stewards actually crossed in the corridors with our notes."

After cocktails, the couples dined together. On the last night aboard they had dinner together again and didn't part until near dawn.

The Burtons got off in Cherbourg, to make a movie in Paris. The Karls came to England.

Draft-Aid Program Reported Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Start of an experimental program designed to help some 60,000 young men qualify for the draft has been delayed, the Army said Monday night.

Originally scheduled to begin at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., in January, the program had a two-fold purpose: To reduce reliance on the draft by expanding the pool of qualified volunteers and to bring young men whose mental and physical capabilities were below draft standards to the point where they were qualified.

The special training was to be limited to volunteers and to those whose deficiencies could be corrected in six to 12 months.

The Army cited congressional wishes for a review of the project.

Counsel for Poor Defendants Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Earl Warren has appointed a committee of judges to develop plans for providing lawyers for persons too poor to obtain an adequate defense in criminal cases in federal courts.

Such aid to defendants is called for in the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, recently enacted by Congress.

Warren also called a special session of the Judicial Conference of the United States for Jan. 13, in the Supreme Court building, to consider administrative problems faced by the federal judiciary under the new law.

What They Do When They Are Broke in Paris

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS (NEA) — Parisians have almost daily reminders these chilling autumn days that not every American in Paris is rolling in dough.

Over the last decade, most Frenchmen have become accustomed to U.S. visitors traveling on a modest budget and particularly to American students who live on a shoestring.

But only recently have Parisians woke up to the fact that a miniature American "flea market" has sprung up, operated by down-and-out students eager to sell or barter something to raise funds to go home or to prolong their stay in the City of Light. Its location, naturally, is in front of the American Express office, that favorite meeting place for young Americans since before Ernest Hemingway enjoyed his "movable feast."

Its right off the Place de l'Opera in a fine section of the city. Said the director of a nearby exclusive store:

"Imagine my surprise when one day I saw a battered old 4-horsepower Renault, a transistor radio, a naval kitbag and a miniature record player offered for sale."

On a nearby street lamp were posted requests for and offers of rooms to rent and general of rooms to rent and general notices such as: "L. K. Smith is leaving for home. Useless to write his old address."

When all else fails and there is no possibility of laying hands on an honest penny, the down-and-out American youths find their way to the U. S. Embassy on the Place de la Concorde, confident that Uncle Sam will be only too delighted to help them out.

A spokesman at the embassy's welfare department said that it is hard to convince the kids—their ages run from 18 to 25—that the embassy has no funds earmarked for indigent nationals abroad. "But I'm an American," they protest. "I'll sign anything and promise to pay it back."

"All we can do," said another officer, "is hand out good advice. We tell them the first thing to do is to contact their family and how to have the money sent." (Parents who balk at sending a ticket can always buy one that is not negotiable).

More than 700 angry or anxious youngsters have appealed to the embassy during the current year.

The notion that the embassy cannot provide free transportation back to the United States or any other European city is not the only one difficult for this generation to understand. The embassy is not there to offer free meals or lodging, nor is it in a position to find a job nor help pawn possessions. Only after all this is understood does it dawn on the youths that the most sensible thing to do is to call their parents collect from the welfare officer's office.

"Being broke during the summer is not the hardship it becomes when the cold weather sets in," said the embassy man. "When winter comes, they usually are without a sou and firmly believe that they are entitled, as American citizens, to be repatriated."

The embassy will, on the other hand, make every effort to assist any American stranded in Europe in such emergencies as deaths, accidents, a family crisis or illness, when no financial help can be expected from family or friends. An application for repatriation is forwarded to Washington for further consideration.

Kidney Transplant Patient Dies

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Edith Parker, a Negro school teacher who made medical history by surviving for nine months with a transplanted champanzee kidney, died Monday.

The cause of her death was not announced. Doctors said they wanted to make a complete study first.

Miss Parker, 23, also suffered from diabetes. However, she was in apparent good health until she became sick last weekend and was returned to Charity Hospital here.

Miss Parker underwent the delicate kidney transplant operation last Jan. 13. A team of Tulane University surgeons headed by Dr. Keith Reemtsmu performed the operation.

She was released from the hospital last May and resumed teaching her high school class at Napoleonville, La., in September.

Neither official was present. The ESU is an organization dedicated to "promoting understanding and friendship between the people of the United States and the people of the (British) commonwealth.

The board of directors also re-elected President Churles E. Saltzman, former U.S. undersecretary of state; and vice presidents J. W. F. Readwell of New York, Paul F. Warburg of New York; and treasurer Alan T. Schumacher of New York und Newport, R.I., Thomas Tyler, a Chicago attorney, was elected a vice president for the first time.

She Avoided Truck Crash Just in Time

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — Mrs. Hazel Glass Dunford, 70, was watching the World Series on television Monday when she heard a strange noise across the street.

She got up to look out the window just as a tractor-trailer slammed into her home. The right front wheel crushed the chair in which she had been sitting. Authorities said a brake failure allowed the truck to coast away from a loading ramp across the street.

SOUNDS FAMILIAR

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Nurses at St. Elizabeth's Hospital were understandably startled when they looked at the name of their new patient.

Only a few hours after Mrs. Glenn J. Lamont Jr. was released from the hospital her mother-in-law, Mrs. Glenn J. Lamont Sr. of Turon, Kan., was admitted—to the same room and the same bed.

Political Crowds Getting Out of Hand on U.S. Scene

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Touring in the campaign of 1964 shows strikingly that the President, not to mention challenger Barry Goldwater and other major candidates, needs to be protected from perfectly innocent onlookers as well as potential assassins.

Indeed, the onlookers need to be protected against themselves.

This is an aspect of security not dealt with in the Warren report, critical though it was of Secret Service and FBI procedures for guarding the President in public.

After three straight weeks on the campaign trail, this reporter concludes that those whose task it is to manage and control political gatherings and motorcades are only occasionally equal to the job.

The President—and other candidates—must bear a crucial portion of blame, since they often urge upon police a highly indulgent attitude toward generally undisciplined crowds.

But local authorities in countless communities evidently have not kept up to date their techniques for handling crowds and motorcades. Often they appear nearly helpless.

In Madison, Wis., a press bus traveling with Goldwater nearly crushed a taxi crossing an intersection. The bus barreled through a red light at 40 miles an hour. No police officers were around to give unsuspecting motorists fair warning.

In Sacramento, Calif., on a Johnson tour, only two policemen and a loose, flimsy rope barrier were supposed to hold back a seething crowd pushing toward the President and the guest seat section from the side.

Women close to hysteria were extracted from the frightening crush from time to time. Children, squeezed by the mass, toppled off a three-foot retaining wall onto a sidewalk below.

Finally a cordon of police Secret Service men linked arms and halted the advancing crowd, barely a dozen yards from where the President was speaking.

When the President moves along an airport fence or other barrier, neither the Secret Service nor the police shield him from the people. They walk beside and behind him, ready for action. Yet a fast-moving assassin could shoot or knife him before they could act.

Well - wishers who pull the candidate off his feet by grabbing and holding his hand in a moving car now are an old story.

In upstate New York, youngsters in town after town simply refused to stand clear when Robert Kennedy's campaign convertible began moving from the speaking site. They broke into wild dashes, running close beside the vehicle or behind it—and in front of another moving car. Only sheer luck prevents tragedy at such times.

Crowds today are dominated by celebrity hunters rather than sober seekers after political argument. The President, Barry Goldwater, Bob Kennedy and others are simply the political incarnation of the Beatles, Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor.

Emotional frenzy is usually the key. In giving vent to it, the eager onlookers are oblivious to their own and everyone else's safety — including the President's.

The supreme goal is to touch or be touched by the celebrity. "Let's mob him," cried a young girl to her friend as Bob Kennedy came into sight.

Another, caught with her companion deep in the crowd, shouted: "Come on, let's get up there. Otherwise the whole thing is wasted."

She meant that if they did not get into touching range the long, patient wait in the warm sun would, by her measure, go for naught.

Too often the local police seem neither ineffective or downright inefficient. Many police departments clearly have no idea how to keep a motorcade together. They let foolhardy people scamper through it. They let the official cars and buses string out until an occasion tail-end vehicles find themselves racing unescorted in an effort to keep up.

Local motorcade organizers sometimes countermand standing arrangements for priority positions in a candidate's traveling entourage. Police do not know which car is supposed to be where in the lineup.

In the frequent confusion, police somehow unaware of Secret Service identification buttons may manhandle the President's prime protectors. This happened recently in Seattle, Wash.

A "fallout" of shoes left behind by a dispersing crowd bespeaks the explosive danger of the human crush around the President and other political celebrities. Injuries are common. Thus far, real tragedy has been averted. But luck has been the great aid.

Yet so long as Johnson and other "stars" urge police indulgence toward the untold thousands of risk-taking celebrity hunters, the prospects of improved security in political crowds are probably not bright. Perhaps only a grave or fatal injury will spur badly needed action on a matter getting out of hand.

Sweepstakes in New Hampshire Said Success

By JERRY SHEEHAN

CONCORD, N.H. (NEA)—The first running of the New Hampshire sweepstakes has galloped to a successful finish, but Dame Fortune's merry wheel spins on.

Now California voters are being asked on election day whether they, too, wish to set up a gambling operation. Other states are watching New Hampshire's operation with an eye toward imitation if it proves a long-range success.

Anyone contemplating a similar venture would do well to visit the Sweepstakes in the capital. The handful of men who have run the operation since its birth have flopped back in their chairs and are wondering how they ever did it.

Not that it was done perfectly. The surprising thing is that it was done at all.

Running a sweepstakes (a variation of a lottery) is a little like starting a kangaroo farm. There are not many experts.

The organizers of the nation's only state gambling monopoly frankly admit that they didn't know how to "raise kangaroos;" but they learned slowly and painfully. When the count was made they had sold $5.7 million in three-dollar tickets. After taxes, operating expenses and nearly $2 million in winning payoffs they were able to present New Hampshire's schools with the profits. About $2.8 million was spread around the school districts—which by law can be the only recipients.

This meant that each child in a public school received, in effect, about $24 toward his education.

One Concord resident, hearing of this figure decided that he had just about broken even. He purchased nine (losing) tickets and has one daughter in school.

But in the Granite State, this man is an exception. Some 80 per cent of all sweeps sales went to out-of-state visitors.

The sweeps differs from an out-and-out lottery because the winning tickets are paired with hundreds of racing horses. By a process of elimination a handful of them it matched in one big sweeps race in Rockingham Park. Winners may get $100,000. For millions of bettors, of course, fortune's wheel clicks on past them. But that, as the expression goes, is what makes a horse race.

The success of the New Hampshire sweeps is due in large part to the few men who make up the Sweepstakes Commission. They work for a token wage, $2,500 per year. One of these men Howell F. Sheperd, said, "We didn't have much to go on. We looked at the Irish, Puerto Rico and Jamaica sweeps, then did a lot of doodling.

"Then came the question of where to sell the tickets—or rather the receipts for the tickets. First we figured that town clerks could handle the job. But most of the clerks are little old ladies and we had a rebellion on our hands.

"So we decided to sell them through the 49 state liquor stores and at two race tracks.

"Then we needed a machine to record the sales and dispense receipts. A real problem. Who the hell makes sweepstakes machines?

"With time running out we had 200 machines made at $200 each. They're lousy. We're phasing them out and replacing them with $500 machines. This year we'll sell twice us many.

Actor Taeger Is Riding On Escalator

By JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK (NEA)—The callouses which cover the inside of Ralph Taeger's hands are constant reminders to him that heartbreak and humiliation, those corny trademarks of a B - movie about Hollywood, really do exist.

All actors have to begin somewhere, and those who survive the start usually begin a slow climb up. But things have been different for Taeger.

"I take 10 steps up and 10 back down," he says with a rueful smile. Taeger, who is remarkably composed about his bad luck, apparently had found his niche four seasons ago when he was picked to co-star in an NBC-TV series called Klondike.

Even though the series flopped, Taeger made an impression on critics, several of whom called him a "young Bogart." The next year he had another television series, Acapulco, but this one also failed. Then except for a few small roles, Ralph disappeared from the television screens.

Now suddenly he is being hailed as an exciting newcomer to feature films. He has a good supporting role in "The Carpetbaggers," and the romantic lead opposite Shelley Winters in "A House Is Not a Home." In the interim, he acquired the callouses and learned first hand what it's like to a young hasbeen.

"Things were not too good for a while," he recalls. "I began to feel a sense of rejection. Steak dinners began to disappear. I kept plugging away and nothing happened. Financially, I was all right for a time. I made a little money from the television series. I'm a cheap son of a gun anyway; when you have starved you get like that. The biggest problem was not the fact that I was not-working. It was the feeling of not caring that eventually overcame me."

Ralph doesn't really know why the jobs stopped coming, but he thinks it was the fault of his agent. "After the two series, my price was up and my agent asked for still more money. I left it up to him. I think he just out-priced me. As time went on, the calls stopped coming for me."

Taeger got a job as a day laborer — "I can always find work. My father threw me out to the wolves pretty early. But I would rather make a soft living. Acting is easy work. I carried bricks to the bricklayer and I mixed cement for a construction project."

You wonder if anyone recognized Ralph as a former television star. "Well, no trucks stopped when they saw me. Doing construction work after starring in television might be humiliating. It's an adjustment to make and I guess it's just a matter of acceptance and swallowed pride."
